Ford may choose woman to replace ailing justice

Successor sought for Douglass

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford's choice of a successor to retired Justice William O. Douglas could tip the ideological balance on the Supreme Court as it faces such crucial issues as the death penalty.

Douglas, 77-years old and partially paralyzed since last Dec. 31 by a stroke, retired Wednesday, telling President Ford what had become increasingly obvious to observers of the nation's highest court.

"I have been unable to shoulder my full share of the burden," he wrote after a decision which court officials said was reached alone in the privacy of his chambers. He said he was retiring effective immediately, bringing an end to history's longest Supreme Court career.

Ford, who as a congressman attempted five years ago to impeach Douglas, saluted him for service "unequaled in all the history of the court."

Douglas had been a Supreme Court justice since April 17, 1939, when he was sworn in following his appointment by President Franklin D. Roosevelt and nearly unanimous confirmation by the Senate.

His court service eclipsed by two years and two weeks the previous record set by Justice Stephen Field, a Californian appointed by President Abraham Lincoln.

His retirement could pave the way for appointment of the first woman justice, and feminist groups with avowed support of First Lady Betty Ford are expected to mount a strong drive for such an appointment.

Women who have been mentioned include Shirley M. Hufstetler of Los Angeles, a judge of the 9th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals; Carla A. Hills, secretary of housing and urban development, and three from Ford's home state of Michigan.

The Michigan women who have figured in speculation are former Rep. Martha Griffiths, U.S. District Judge Cornelia Kennedy of Detroit and State Supreme Court Justice Mary Coleman.

Despite growing demand for a woman appointee, Atty. Gen. Edward M. Levi is expected to be a strong contender also. Levi would give the court its first Jewish justice since Abe Fortas resigned in 1969. Before that there had been at least one Jewish member of the court continuously since appointment of Justice Louis D. Brandeis in 1916.

Although he has long been reported to be interested in an appointment to the high court, Levi was discouraging such speculation Wednesday night. Another man who has been mentioned as a possibility is Sen. Robert P. Griffin, R-Mich., but Senate sources said Griffin has indicated he would recommend naming a woman.

The constitutionality of the death penalty is the central issue in one of eight cases the court was unable to decide last term, apparently due at least in part to Douglas's illness.

Douglas voted with the majority in 1972 when the court struck down the then-existing capital punishment laws because they gave too much discretion to judges and juries. The question now is whether the 34 state laws passed since then suffer from the same defect.

LARGEST TO DOCK IN NORTH AMERICA — The largest vessel ever to dock in North America, the 357,230-ton "Al Andalus," prepares to dock at the Gulf Oil Refinery on Nova Scotia's Strait of Canso, with 2.5 million barrels of Persian oil aboard. It will take 24 hours to unload the 1189-foot-long, 174-foot-wide ship, which carries enough oil to supply Canada's needs for one day.

Ordinance placed on second reading

City Council continues steps toward accepting sewer grant

By GEORGE MALEK

Continuing steps toward acceptance of a federal grant for the proposed sewer project and grants for other community improvements headed the Washington C.H. City Council agenda Wednesday.

Other items discussed included the repeal of the city income tax, the proposed employment Gale L. Helms and Associates, Inc. engineering firm as city engineers, Washington C.H. Municipal Court judge salary, repair of two railroad crossings, a construction variance and resolutions concerning two recent resignations from appointive positions.

In connection with the proposed sewer improvement project, an ordinance to accept the federal grant for the first and second phases was placed on its second reading. The issue produced the expected 5-2 vote with Council members John E. Rhoads and Billie Wilson dissenting.

Council chairman Ralph L. Cook requested that Council table a move to place the ordinance accepting a new contract with C.F. Bird and R.J. Bull, Ltd., the city's consulting engineers, on its final reading. He stated that there was no reason to approve the contract without accepting the federal funds at the same time. The contract and acceptance of the grant will both appear for final readings at the next meeting.

City Manager George H. Shapter reported to Council that in accordance with their action at the last meeting, he had contacted the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency and requested 90 days for the city to determine whether or not to accept the grant. The EPA refused and scheduled Dec. 10 as the final deadline, he said.

Although there was some objection during discussion, Council unanimously approved the formation of a citizens committee to review the proposed assessment schedule which would accompany approval of the sewer project.

Hugh S. (Bud) Patton, who has been designated to chair the committee, was authorized to select his own committeemen.

Council member Mrs. Bertha McCullough suggested that since there had been authorization for the city to engage additional legal counsel for the proposed sewer project, the title to the present treatment plant site be researched and the city's easements reviewed.

OTHER GRANTS were also discussed for city improvement. One grant would assist with the purchase of new traffic control facilities in the downtown business district while the other would provide funds for any number of community development projects.

An application was submitted last year for funding on each project, but both were rejected. While City Council would like to pursue these grants again this year, several questions were presented.

Cook asked whether the city could afford even the smallest percentage of matching funds required for the revamping of traffic lights. It was suggested that U.S. Housing and Urban Development funds under the community development plan might be used for part of the local requirement for the other grant, but no one seemed in a position to give a definitive answer.

There was also an objection raised over hiring the same consulting firm which handled the project last year. Rhoads stated that he was unhappy with the firm's work on the previous grant applications, and suggested that if Council proceeded it should seek another consultant. The suggestion met with Council approval.

The grants could amount to as much as $450,000 if both were approved, and Additional coverage of Wednesday night's regular Washington C.H. City Council can be found on page 9 of today's edition.

Council authorized the city manager to investigate the grants and contact consulting firms which might be able to assist. Cost to the city for the services of the Ralph L. Woolpert Co. consulting firm last year was $1,500.

The city's deteriorated financial condition surfaced with Shapter noting the repeal of the city income tax in his report to Council. He said that he and the city auditor have been reviewing records and compiling a simplified financial report. Although the work is not yet completed, Shapter said the city's fiscal outlook is ominous. The city income tax officially terminates Saturday.

An ordinance designating Gale Helms and Associates as city engineers and establishing a rate schedule was tabled after a lengthy discussion of potential conflict of interest.

After noting confidence in the firm and its integrity, council stated that naming the firm as city engineers might place Helms and company in an awkward position professionally. Council agreed, and it was decided that the ordinance should be rewritten to establish rates, but authorizing the city manager to engage the engineers at his discretion rather than terming them "city engineers." It was the consensus of the members that Helms should be contacted to participate in the rewording of the legislation.

In compliance with the newly-mandated state minimum salary for municipal court judges. The state requires that the salary here be raised from the previous $10,000 per year to $11,000 plus 18 cents per capita.

Council unanimously passed an ordinance raising the salary to $15,582.98 which is based on the formula as it applies to Fayette County. The city pays 60 per cent of the salary while the county treasury supplies the remaining 40 per cent.

Another ordinance which was approved unanimously allows the Ohio Department of Transportation to repair railroad crossing on W. Temple and W. Elm streets. The state will pay the entire cost of repairs, including labor, but needed permission from the city to begin work. The only local responsibility is to block off the repair area and reroute traffic.

A construction variance was granted to a resident at the northeast corner of Lewis and Gregg streets. Local codes require the construction of a sidewalk along the front of new homes. The placing of a walk along Lewis Street, however, serves no useful purpose since adjacent lands are vacant and do not have sidewalks. Therefore, Council agreed to permit the variance and not require the construction of a sidewalk at the present time but wished to retain the right to require one at a later date when the area is developed.

Hearing set on Hearst case delay

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The judge in the Patricia Hearst case has called a special hearing next Monday to decide whether to delay Miss Hearst's bank robbery trial after a related decision in the case of Sara Jane Moore, accused of attempting to kill President Ford.

One of Miss Hearst's attorneys, Albert Johnson, said Wednesday night that U.S. District Court Judge Oliver J. Carter possibly could delay the Dec. 15 trial date until mid-February.

The Hearst defense team has sought such a delay, claiming that the 21-year-old newspaper heiress was too traumatized by her 19 months as a captive of the Symbionese Liberation Army to stand trial immediately.

The chances for delay increased significantly Wednesday when the 9th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals, ruling in the case of Miss Moore, held that a judge need not count time used for psychiatric examinations in the 90 days required by the Speedy Trial Act to bring a federal prisoner to trial.

A final version of the Speedy Trial Act goes into effect in 1979 and provides for exceptions to a more stringent 60-day limit in the case of psychiatric testing, but the interim provisions of the act now in effect mention no such exception.

Both Miss Moore and Miss Hearst were scheduled to go on trial Dec. 15. The judge in each case set the early trial date to comply with the previously uncontested trial act, enacted Sept. 29.

Machette-wielding man frees woman, yields to police

LAKE WALES, Fla. (AP) — A machete-wielding man, wanted for questioning in the stabbing death of one woman, released another woman and surrendered to police early today after holding her hostage for nearly 15 hours.

The hostage suffered severe bruises, cuts and a possible fractured rib, police said.

Police said Jasper Mines, 32, released Janie Nelson, a secretary, and gave up after being convinced he would not be shot down when he left the real estate office where she had been held captive.

Mines was arrested on an open charge related to the death of the first woman. Charges were being considered in the hostage case and in an attack on two other persons.

Mrs. Nelson, 32 and the mother of three young children, was rushed to Lake Wales General Hospital after her release.

Polk County Sheriff Monroe Brannen had said she appeared to be "in good shape" when she was first released. However, a spokesman for Brannen later reported that Mrs. Nelson was suffering from severe bruises from her shoulder down to her lower back area.

"She was beaten with the flat of the blade of the machete on several occasions during the first couple of hours of the incident," the spokesman said. "She also has slight cuts on both wrists and on her neck and possibly a broken or fractured rib."

He described the cuts as minor scratches and said they were inflicted by the machete being drawn against her arm or neck.

"If he felt like we were moving around too much, he would inflict one of these cuts," he said.

Mines, a fruitpicker from Wabasso, Fla., had stormed into the office before noon Wednesday.

Dozens of policemen and others surrounded the office and spent the rest of the day and into the night trying to calm him down and talk him out. But Mines, who Brannen said frequently referred to himself as "the devine terrorist," repeatedly refused to surrender.

Police said that before going to the office, Mines had attacked two passersby when he abandoned his van and stole a car. One of those attacked was reported in critical condition.

An off-duty deputy in Indian River County found the body of Marie L. Hartnoll, 20, of Satellite Beach, bound hand and foot in the van left by Mines. Officials said she had been stabbed to death.

Dan Taylor, a spokesman for Brannen, said Mines released Mrs. Nelson and gave up at about 1:30 a.m. only after finally being convinced he would not be immediately killed.

"He had decided to give up about an hour earlier but was still afraid we would shoot him," said Taylor. "We finally convinced him that we wouldn't."

"He just said, 'I'm ready to do it,' and went to the door and removed the desk he had blocking it and came out."

Brannen said Mrs. Nelson did as much as anyone in talking Mines into giving up. "She was a very brave woman," Brannen said. "She talked to him the whole time and kept him calmed down."

Franco gravely ill; astonishes doctors

MADRID, Spain (AP) — Gen. Francisco Franco's doctors, astounded by the 82-year-old leader's month-long struggle to survive, reported new hemorrhaging today and said they were helping him to breathe artificially.

Premier Carlos Arias Navarro visited the hospital twice in the course of the morning, underlining the gravity of the general's condition. Nearly 500 Spaniards gathered outside the hospital, many listening to the latest medical bulletins on transistor radios.

Franco's doctors said new internal bleeding had broken out for the third consecutive day, but had been controlled within two hours with "medical treatment," presumably coagulants. They said the general had again been linked to a kidney machine and an artificial respirator, inserted through a tracheotomy. Sources close to the doctors reported that Franco's lung congestion had worsened dramatically, spreading from his right to his left lung.

The Spanish dictator's heart, lungs and kidneys are failing. His blood is clotting in some places and hemorrhaging in others. He has had two major and two minor operations. His many medicines create other problems. And he is three weeks short of 83.

In the 27 days since Franco became ill, his initial medical team of 11 doctors has grown to 26, including eight heart specialists, three stomach specialists, two kidney specialists, two lung specialists, two digestive experts, two anesthetists, an endocrinologist, a pathologist, a reanimation expert, a brain specialist, a radiologist, a urologist and an immunologist.

Franco got sick during a cabinet meeting on Oct. 17 and at first was reported to have the flu. Later, government officials admitted he had also suffered heart tremors. For six days, word on his condition came only from his palace staff. Then, under nationwide criticism, the doctors began chronicling his condition in daily bulletins.

The old man spent the first three weeks of his illness in his Pardo Palace, his home since the Civil War brought him to power in 1939. A hospital bed was brought in to make him more comfortable. An intensive care unit was at his side.

The generalissimo's condition worsened rapidly.

On Oct. 21, he suffered his first heart attack. On succeeding days, there were repeated announcements of cardiac insufficiency, sign of a failing heart.

Energy bill means hikes later

WASHINGTON (AP) — Energy legislation that would reduce fuel prices temporarily is awaiting final action in the Senate and House after winning approval of congressional conferees and apparently of the Ford administration.

The bill, if signed by President Ford, would establish a national energy policy and resolve a 10-month-old impasse between the Democratic Congress and the Republican White House.

Congressional economists estimated the legislation would result in an immediate 3.5-cent reduction in the price of a gallon of gasoline or heating oil. Prices would begin rising above today's level in mid-1977, going from the present 60-cent per gallon average for gasoline to about 63.5 cents if other factors remain constant.

Democrats on the Senate-House conference committee that wrote the final bill said they have assurances from Ford administration officials that the compromise is acceptable. But none of the 11 Republican conferees signed the measure.

The bill, cleared by the conference committee Wednesday night after 15 days of debate, is likely to gain final congressional approval by the end of the month.

But since current controls on oil prices are due to expire Saturday, Congress probably will rush to the White House a stopgap measure to prevent controls from lapsing until the long-range bill is approved. Or the long-range plan could be made retroactive to Saturday.

In addition to extending oilprice controls through March 15, 1979, the bill includes a variety of energy-conservation plans and creates standby presidential authority for gasoline rationing.

The most controversial conservation sections would require the auto industry to manufacture cars that use less gasoline and would direct the states to enforce measures aimed at cutting energy consumption by 5 per cent by 1980.

But most of the squabbling between Congress and the White House over energy policy centered on the price of oil.

The conferees' bill represents a softening of positions on both sides.

Ford had insisted that all price controls be ended immediately. Key Democrats, who had argued for virtually permanent controls, agreed to let them expire within 40 months.

The conference that wrote the final terms of the bill labored for 15 days. But the final item of dispute was not worked out until late Wednesday when the committee agreed to a provision that could lead to greater price incentives for the expensive production of the oil in Alaska.

However, the agreement does not assure special treatment for Alaska. The bill authorizes the president — but only if Congress approves — to allow higher prices for Alaskan oil in 1977, a few months before production there is due to start.

The controls due to expire Saturday have held the price of 60 per cent of U.S. oil production to $5.25 a barrel, while uncontrolled domestic oil sells for $14. This results in a $10.75 average.

The congressional price plan would result in the removal of a $2-per-barrel tariff that Ford imposed on foreign oil and, in effect, on uncontrolled domestic oil.

Fifth bomb blast in London kills man, injures 15 others

LONDON (AP) — The fifth bomb explosion in London's fashionable West End in three weeks killed one person and injured 15 others, including an American couple, Scotland Yard announced. The Irish Republican Army was blamed.

The bomb was hurled through a window of Scott's, an expensive seafood restaurant on Mount Street, at 9:30 p.m. when about 70 customers were dining. It blew up the oyster and lobster bar and started a fire.

Three men, one with red hair, were seen running from the restaurant toward Hyde Park after the blast.

Right-to-strike measure dead

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Majority Democrats have failed in a last ditch effort to override Gov. James A. Rhodes veto of a right-to-strike bill and it appears doubtful the controversial issue will be seriously considered in the 1976 session.

In its final full 1975 meeting, the Ohio House succeeded Wednesday in overriding the governor's veto of an agency rulemaking bill and completed action on a plan to restrict electric company fuel adjustments.

Rhodes' rejection of the public employees collective bargaining bill was sustained, however, by a four vote margin, 56-37, with 60 votes needed for the override.

Afterward, House Speaker Vernal G. Riffe Jr., D-89 New Boston, conceded it was unlikely a new bill would get very far next year because of the stalemate between labor and the Rhodes administration over strike provisions.

"It looks very negative, very uphill," agreed Senate Majority Leader Oliver Ocasek, D-27 Akron, who led a successful override effort last month in the upper chamber. "It is very dismal that a collective bargaining bill can pass in 1976, but I think all parties should keep trying."

Two Democrats joined 35 Republicans in dooming the bill. One of them, Rep. John Wargo, D-2 Lisbon, claimed pressure on him to change his vote "has gone beyond the stage of threats."

Wargo said labor leaders had asked local unions in his Columbiana County district to withdraw support for his candidacy next year.

By a vote of 83-9, House members overrode the governor's veto of a measure that would authorize lawmakers to review and even disapprove rules adopted by Ohio's nearly 200 boards commission and agencies.

The Senate is not expected to act on the legislation until next year.

In his veto message, Rhodes said, "The General Assembly has attempted in this legislation to place itself in the position of exerting legislative review over the executive branch of government."

But most members of Rhodes own party disagreed.

"I think it's important that we in the legislature assert ourselves," said Rep. William Batchelder, R-93 Medina, "no matter who is sitting downstairs (in the governor's office)."

The fuel bill, which Rhodes is expected to sign, would direct the Public Utilities Commission of Ohio to closely monitor automatic fuel adjustments by which electric companies pass on increased coal costs to customers.

Tighter regulation of the fuel adjustment clause is not expected to result in lower rates, but could force reimbursements or billing adjustments if utilities cannot justify the increases. The House accepted Senate amendments, without debate, in a 90-0 vote.

In other business, the House concurred in Senate amendments: to provide permanent hunting and trapping licenses for Ohioans 65 and older; increase from $2,000 to $3,000 the amounts that may be lent by small loan companies, and convey land in Stark County for the Stark County Area Joint Vocational School District. All of those bills were sent on to Rhodes.

By a vote of 64-29, the House adopted and sent to the Senate a proposed constitutional amendment allowing the legislature to reorganize big county governments. It is being proposed for a place on the June 1976 election ballot.

The House adjourned until Dec. 9 for an expected skeleton session. Senators return the same day for a scaled down meeting.

By The Associated Press
Winter finally came to Ohio overnight.

Temperatures dropped steadily through the night across Ohio and dawn brought a few light flurries into the state.

Early morning temperatures ranged from 34 in Youngstown to 39 in Cincinnati.

A trough of low pressure moving toward Ohio was expected to spread flurries across the entire state today. A few snow squalls were possible along the east lake shore. Although flurries were likely everywhere in the state today, little or no accumulation was expected except along the lake shore from Cleveland east. Accumulations in the snow belt could amount to as much as two inches in the snow squalls.

The National Weather Service predicted winds of 30 to 40 knots on Lake Erie this afternoon and issued gale warnings. Waves from 5 to 10 feet were forecast.

The northwest winds were to pump cold air over the lake into Ohio, dropping temperatures into the low 30s by late afternoon. Flurries are likely tonight in northeastern Ohio, while there is a chance of a few flurries falling over the rest of the state.

Gusty winds to 30 miles an hour will make lows in the 20s feel even colder. Partly cloudy skies will move into western Ohio Friday, while a few flurries linger in the eastern counties. Temperatures will climb only into the 30s.

A warming trend Saturday through Monday with little or no precipitation. Highs Saturday in the upper 30s and low 40s, warming to the 50s by Monday. Lows in the upper 20s and the 30s Saturday and in the 30s and low 40s Sunday and Monday.

Commerce Commission, which regulates the agency.

The proposal would set up a so-called "zone of reasonableness" for rate changes that would allow the trucking firms to raise or lower their fares within certain percentage limits without fear of the ICC suspending the rates and keeping the fares from going into effect.

The ICC still would have authority to investigate fares. It could rule rate changes illegal and order them revoked but could not keep the fares from taking effect while an investigation was underway.

The legislation also would allow trucks that now carry agricultural goods — and so are exempt from ICC regulation by act of Congress — to carry other commodities such as manufactured goods on return trips.

Currently, the ICC prohibits agriculture trucking firms from carrying other commodities on return trips unless the truck has been leased to a regulated carrier. The provision, designed to protect regulated carriers, results in some agricultural trucks running empty on return trips since few agricultural products move from city to rural areas.

The trucking proposal is the third major deregulation legislation submitted by the Ford administration. The administration earlier asked Congress to make similar changes in rules governing the nation's airlines and railroads.

Indian jewelry reported stolen

DAYTON, Ohio (AP) — Three cases of American Indian jewelry were stolen in a burglary at the Dayton Museum of Natural History early Wednesday and the curator, Robert Lyons, said the loss could be as high as $10,000.

No major artifacts were taken, Lyons said. The stolen items included Navajo, Zuni and Hopi rings, bracelets and necklaces bought from traders in southwestern states.

Museum Director E. J. Koestner said the burglary was by somebody obviously in a hurry.

'Dear teacher, dear class'

By LEWIS PARRETT

City Elementary Coordinator
This week's featured teacher and class are Mrs. Alexis Junk and her class of 25 third graders at Eastside Elementary School.

Mrs. Junk was born and raised in Washington C. H. and has spent her entire life here. Her school chums recall her as Alexis Wackman. She graduated from Washington High School and furthered her education with a bachelor of science degree in elementary education from Rio Grande College. While at Rio Grande, she was a staff member of both the yearbook and newspaper. Upon graduating, she returned to Washington C. H. where she has been teaching the past five years, three years in the fifth grade and two in the third.

She resides at 805 Dayton Avenue with her husband Paul, a civil engineer with the Fayette County engineer's office.

Her hobbies include decoupage, embroidery, macrame, crocheting, reading, traveling, sewing, and stained glass projects. She especially enjoys Chinese food. Her favorite color is blue — any shade. Her favorite place she jokingly says seems to be on the road — either coming or going.

During the summertime, she enjoys relaxing, traveling, reading, and working on her hobbies.

During the school year, the class plans to do units on Thanksgiving and the Pilgrims, making a calendar, and famous Americans, time, and money.

Next week, the week of visitation, the class will be doing their regular classroom work and a study of the Pilgrims. In association with that study, they will construct a paper model of the Plymouth colony. Also scheduled is creative writing and S.R.A.

Jeff Darden, a member of the class, said, "I like school because the teacher helps us read, learn, and help other people."

"I like school because we learn a lot and work a lot," are the feelings of David Linquist, another member of the class.

The host and hostess for visitation will vary throughout the week. Mrs.

High court halts closed hearings

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — In an apparently unprecedented decision, the Ohio Supreme Court has halted a trial judge from closing his courtroom to the public in a criminal case.

The high court Wednesday temporarily restrained Montgomery County Common Pleas Judge Stanley S. Phillips from barring the public from pretrial hearings in the Lester C. Emoff murder-kidnap trial in Dayton.

The action, on a news media appeal of the judge's order, means Phillips now may either open the hearings or postpone them until the Supreme Court makes a final ruling on the merits of the case.

The judge, who Monday began closed hearings on motions to suppress statements and evidence in the case, indicated he would make a decision today on what course of action to follow.

The Reporter's Committee for Freedom of the Press in Washington, D.C., said this was the first state Supreme Court ruling of its kind to open up pretrial hearings to the public.

The issue involves the trial of Herman Lee Moore, 46, one of three Dayton men charged with aggravated murder, kidnaping and extortion in the September abduction and slaying of Emoff, owner of three Dayton furniture stores.

Phillips agreed to a request by Moore's defense attorneys that pretrial hearings be closed to protect the defendant's right to a fair trial.

Attorneys for defendant Albert Lee Scott Jr., 41, also have asked that his pretrial hearings be closed and the third defendant, Willis Leroy, 44, is expected to do the same.

Dayton Newspapers, Inc., publisher of the Dayton Daily News and The Journal Herald, appealed the order, arguing that the public is a party to a criminal action and has the right to know what goes on in the courts during all stages of the trial process.

The newspapers turned to the Supreme Court after the state 2nd District Court of Appeals turned down their request for a writ of prohibition.

The Supreme Court, in issuing the temporary restraining order, asked both sides to file briefs by the end of November. It did not indicate when a final decision would be made.

Moore's trial was scheduled to begin next Monday.

Gleeful singing at Grace Sunday

The Ohio State University Men's Glee Club under the direction of Professor Norman Staiger will perform at Grace United Methodist Church, corner of North and Market streets, at 7 p.m. Sunday, Nov. 16.

The OSU Men's Club has a history as old as the university itself. In the past the Club has performed on every major television network and has toured the United States coast-to-coast. The club also extensively tours Ohio high schools.

Jointly sponsored by the College of the Arts and the Office of University Development, it has received special recognition including a plaque from Bob Hope and several certificates from the Ohio State University Association and Disneyland.

The 50 club members will show their flexibility and versatility by performing selections encompassing five languages and more than five centuries of literature. Traditional riser posture, broken stage formations and strolling troubadour formats are all a part of the club's routine.

The Ohio State University Men's Glee Club

Devoting most of his energies to guiding the broader career of the Club, Norman Staiger is a Visiting Professor in the College of the Arts and in the Office of University Development. Once active as a concert artist, he has appeared in many recitals, including a Carnegie Hall program which received a most favorable New York Times review. He is an Honorary Member of Sphinx on campus and has received the Alfred J. Wright Award presented in behalf of student leaders at the University. It is through his efforts that the Ohio State University Men's Glee Club and its groups rank high among the finest and proudest singing organizations in the United States.

Tickets are priced at $1 and may be purchased from members of the church youth group or at the door the evening of the concert.

Clef Notes

Nov. 13, tonight- There will be an evangelistic outreach program at 8 p.m. at North High School in Columbus (100 Arcadia - one mile north of the OSU campus). Connie Seymour called with the info and said there'd be singing and music and the author of "Satan Seller," Mike Warnke, would be there to discuss his book. Phil Keaggy (remember the extremely nimble-fingered lead guitarist for Glass Harp) will be one of the musicians on hand. Connie can be contacted at 335-2052. Call her if you need a ride or more info.

Capitol Fraud

Buddah Group recording artist Charlie Daniels has revealed that an album currently released on Capitol Records entitled "Charlie Daniels," is over five years old. Daniels is explicit in his explanation that the group on the album is not The Charlie Daniels Band and does not represent the band as it is today.

"Capitol paid me $7,500 not to make a second album on a two album deal," Daniels explains.

Daniels has just finished recording a new album, "Night Rider" with the current Charlie Daniels Band. The group's latest release, "Fire On The Mountain," has just received certification as a gold LP.

Nov. 30, Sunday Edgar Winter, the J. Geils Band and the Climax Blues Band will be in concert at Riverfront Coliseum at 8 p.m.

Dec. 8, Monday - Riverfront Coliseum presents The Who at 8 p.m.

Theater

Nov. 6-8 - The Roundtown Players of Circleville and vicinity will present the play "Brigadoon" at the Circleville Playhouse on Nov. 6, 7 and 8 at 8:30 p.m. and again on Nov. 13 and 14 at 8:30 p.m. Call 474-4397 for more data.

Nov. 13, 14, 15 - Students from Wilmington College and Clinton County high schools present the "The Sound of Music" in Boyd Auditorium on campus at 8 p.m. each night. Tickets are $2 apiece.

Two demensions split

Marilyn McCoo and Billy Davis Jr., members of the 5th Dimension singing group since its inception 10 years ago, have left the group. However, the 5th Dimension will remain strong with two new members: Danny Beard and Eloise Laws.

McCoo and Davis will continue to perform and record as a duo on ABC Records but will also pursue individual careers.

"The decision to leave the group was an amicable one and not something that we thought about doing just yesterday," said Davis. "We've both always had aspirations for solo careers and were fortunate that the compromise we made 10 years ago worked out so well."

Married for six years, Billy and Marilyn were an important factor behind the 5th Dimension's musical success. Marilyn did lead singing on several of the group's gold singles and Billy did the same on their albums and in live performances.

Nov. 14 and 16 - The hit bicentennial musical "1776" will be presented at the Ohio Theater in Columbus at 8:30 p.m. Friday and 2:30 p.m. and 8 p.m. on Sunday. Call the box office for info: 469-0939.

'Hat's off' here Nov. 21

"Hats Off," a bicentennial musical about American Naval hero John Paul Jones during the Revolutionary War will be presented by local sixth, seventh and eighth graders in the Washington Middle School auditorium at 8 p.m. Friday, Nov. 21.

The story is concerned with the American Naval hero, John Paul Jones, and the adventures of his crew of the "Ranger" while it was docked at port during the Revolutionary War.

In the Prologue, Jimmy, a typical American boy, tries to enlist in the Navy but is refused because of his age. He argues that in the days of John Paul Jones boys of twelve were often accepted. The Recruiting Officer agrees with him and points out that the "Father of the United States Navy" once stood on that very spot. As he speaks, time is turned back and we are in Dame Bly's hospital Mermaid Inn during the stirring days of 1777.

As the curtain rises, the crew of the Ranger, commanded by John Paul Jones, is in port and the young folks are enjoying the short hours before sailing time. Lt. Richard Dale, the great sea-fighter's most trusted friend and his fiancée, Marion, are among the merry-makers. They are ever watchful for plots against their hero and soon discovered that Capt. Landais, a renegade ship captain and his familiar Boodle are plotting to get the Ranger for themselves.

Meanwhile, Anne Courtleigh a young patriot, receives an unexpected visit from her brother, William, who is a Captain in the British forces. He has been ordered to march, and, in disguise, takes this last opportunity to see his sister.

The plans of Landais are thwarted by Lt. Dale, Red Jerry and other loyal members of the crew. In revenge, Landais tells of Courtleigh's real identity and he is arrested as a spy.

The plot provides plenty of action and intrigue. Mrs. Gene Hughes is directing the musical and Don Riber is handling the sound. The cast consists of: Barry Cupp as John Paul Jones, Pat Croker as Capt. Landais, Tom Hass as Jimmy Gray, George Robinson as the town crier, Ben Echard as Lt. Richard Dale, Debbie Srofe as Marion, Betsy Owen as Sylvia, Jalene Borden as Deborah, Rita Berwanger as Priscilla, Latonda Bailey as Dame Bly, Deborah Fentor as Anne Courtleigh, Rick Immell as Capt. William Courtleigh, David Smith as Boodle, Kevin Highfield as Red Jerry, Eddie Williams as Happy Hawkins, Jeff Lewis as Tommy, Kenny McAllister as Ned, Mary Ragland as Heliotrope, Chiquatta Qualls as Narcissus, Kelly Malotte as a sailor and Todd Herman as a sailor.

IS THAT HOW I SOUND? — Don Riber (seated with right hand up) prepares to cue the cast of "Hats Off," so that the actors can hear what they sound like (by means of tape recorders) doing their lines and work on such things as enunciation and projection. The play will be Nov. 21 at the Washington Middle School auditorium.

Dancing in the musical will be: Kelly Mounts, Tammy Schneider, Patty Carter, Amy Hurley, Jan Hanawalt, Brad Penwell, Tina Denkyne, Tom Shields, Jimmy Conley and Bill Runnels.

Singing in the chorus will be: Mary Whittler, Teresa Whittler, Marie Hall, Hally Ferguson, Dana O'Brien, Teresa Hopson, Darlene Griffin, Mary Patton, Maurica Milstead, Nancy Binzel,

Advance ticket sales for the show are available at the middle school and the price is set at $1 for adults and 50 cents for children.

BLUE JUG

Ed Raetzloff - Lead vocals, rhythm guitar

Bill Little - Lead vocals, keyboards

Clint DeLong - Lead guitar, backing vocals

Mac Walkley - Drums

Bill Burnett - Bass

Horace Greeley gained fame with his proclamation "Go West, young man, go West!" Well, Blue Jug — hailing from the greater Northwest — decided to make their motto "Go South, young musicians, go South!" The end result was they relocated in Nashville, Tennessee and their first album "Blue Jug" has been released on Capricorn Records.

The band originated in Seattle, Washington, where the boys gained their musical foundation by playing in numerous bands gigging anywhere they could — from the mining towns of Montana, on down the West coast and even the boon-docks of Northwest Canada — sometimes driving 400 miles between shows! But Bill Little and Ed Raetzloff had one important thing on their side, (beside rehashing old Beate and Stones tunes which over the years could easily catapult them into anonymity) they worked long and hard at writing original material and developing a unique style known as "Blue Jug Music."

Ed first gained "limited notoriety" by being brought to Nashville as a highly acclaimed talent signed to an exclusive writer's contract, by Buddy Killen himself, with the prestigious Tree Publishing Company. After a while, Buddy realized Ed wasn't producing the "country" writing he expected. Ed was penning progressive tunes many folks call "Rock," but he himself considered them "Mountain Blues." After receiving his release from Tree, Ed went about forming a band as an outlet for his own songs. And blue Jug's first album shows him to be a very important writer.

Clint DeLong arrived in Nashville in October, 1971. He and Ed had been playing in various bands together since they were 16. Over the years, Clint developed a unique style of his own on lead guitar. He's what many people consider an "economical" lead player, with the sensitivity and technical know-how to put one note where one note belongs and not encumber a song with needless flash licks that can easily distort the continuity of a composition. Clint also handles masterfully the high harmonies which so adequately compliment Ed's earthy vocals.

The next member to be called from the West to join the band was Bill Little (known also as Billy Bucksnot because of the alias he used to win third place in a goat-tail tying contest at Port Townsend, Washington). Ed asked Bill to join because of his reputation as "the best keyboard man in Seattle" and it has certainly worked out where a better choice couldn't have been made. Bill's beautiful lead vocals, excellent backing vocals, and superb organ work all blend together to make Blue Jug a group whose diverse styles and sounds hit each end of the musical spectrum.

Mac Walkley, the last Washington native to join Blue Jug, has played drums for numerous bands with Clint and Bill and has even backed "country" acts to prove his insatiable appetite to "drum'til the end!" His perseverance and drive adds untold strength to the tight rhythm of blue Jug's music. Bill Burnett on bass is the only native Tennessean in the group. Playing since he was 13, he, Mac, and Ed have developed into one of the tightest rhythm sections in rock today.

Blue Jug joined Capricorn Records by way of Windchime Productions, out of Nashville. "Blue Jug" was masterfully produced by Johnny Slate and Larry Henley, who contributed greatly in helping develop a sound unique to itself and non-classifiable as far as rock, pop, country, or "southern sound" is concerned.

Blue Jug's first album consists of diverse material ranging from tender love songs "When the Moon Rises" and "Takes a Little Time," to a biting comment on coal mining called "A Miner's Song," along with rockers like "Sugarman," "Hard-Luck Jimmy," and "Come on to Town, Ned." There's even a country-flavored piece (a result of living in Music City) called "It's a Fact."

Blue Jug is fun music! After listening to their first album, "Blue Jug," or enjoying them in concert, you'll definitely get the feeling when you hit your favorite bar for a beer or two that there's a mighty fine chance they'll be sitting there with you — talking of life and times just as their music does — and having a good time, as friends should.

Juvenile law change eyed

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — David J. D'Aquila, former director of communications in the Ohio Youth Commission, has been appointed a special assistant to Atty. Gen. William J. Brown to head a project to draft proposed changes in Ohio's juvenile delinquency laws.

Brown said the juvenile justice system in the state "is in chaos." He said there was an increase in juvenile crime, juvenile courts were over-worked and state institutions were overcrowded.

"There is something wrong with a system that takes a kid who is a truant from school and puts him in an institution with somebody who can teach him to steal a car," Brown said.

Brown said he hopes to submit proposed changes in the law, which will enable Ohio to comply with the new federal juvenile delinquency act, early in 1976.

Men sentenced in slaying case

BURLINGTON, Ky. (AP)— Two Detroit, Mich. men have been returned to federal prisons after being sentenced to an additional 21 years in prison after pleading guilty to slaying a Trenton, Ohio truck driver during a hijacking May 5, 1971.

Richard Dix Stewart, 50, and Dennis McDonald, 28, were earlier sentenced to 10 and 15 year terms respectively following hijacking convictions in U.S. District Court.

The Boone Circuit Court said the additional terms must be served in Kentucky after the federal terms are completed.

TV Viewing

By JAY SHARBUTT
AP Television Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — CBS is airing tonight "Foster and Laurie," a somewhat glib, yet well-acted dramatization of the lives of two young rookie cops who were ambushed and killed here in January 1972.

The officers, Gregory Foster and Rocco Laurie, were shot from behind by several men while on foot patrol in the Lower East Side. A day later, letters signed "Black Liberation Army" claimed that BLA members did the shooting.

Foster was black, Laurie white. Tonight's movie shows that each initially distrusted the other, Laurie because he was uneasy working with a black, Foster because he suspected his fellow cop of bigotry.

In one scene, Foster says that to get closer to the people, cops have got to patrol on foot, not in a police car. Says Laurie, "That's a good way to get a brick dropped on your head — ghetto airmail."

How they become close friends, an effective team on their racially-diverse beat, and subsequently marked for death by a small band of black extremists is amply shown in tonight's two-hour film.

Dorian Harewood is superb as Foster and Perry King turns in a well-shaded performance as his white partner.

Alas, Albert Ruben's script doesn't equal their performances. While it points out that the two cops and their families never socialized with each other, despite the officers' closeness, it makes the Foster-Laurie relationship too simplistic, too pat.

It depicts the two cops as becoming tight, as the saying goes, only after each learns the other was a Marine and that they served at about the same time in the Vietnam war, albeit in different units.

Their common experience in the Corps and combat is portrayed as the magic bond that brings the two together, but it obviously was a lot more than that and this isn't brought out in the movie.

The telling of their stories as cops, on and off the job, comes in a series of scenes that shift from their family lives, their work and the feverish attempts to keep them alive after they're shot.

Amid this are sporadic scenes of the black extremists, one of whom is uncertain about the need to kill "a brother," planning to kill the cops as a revolutionary statement of "self-defense."

The movie starts with a reenactment of the shooting in which Foster was killed outright and Laurie fatally wounded.

In the film, however, this is changed. Foster is depicted as also wounded, and he and Laurie are rushed by fellow officers to a hospital for emergency surgery.

It is there, at the end of the show, that they die on operating tables a few feet apart. And then Foster's widow consoles the widow of Laurie.

It's a dramatically tidy ending and that's what wrong with this movie. Save for a few effective scenes, it seems more an exercise in tight script construction than a real effort to recreate a real story about two cops whose killers still haven't been caught.

Alky ship proposed

MIAMI (AP) — Civic leaders, fretting because thousands of alcoholic derelicts keep steadier citizens away from downtown stores and parks, plan to offer some of them a chance to dry out on a converted Navy hospital ship.

They propose to spend $1.5 million to make a floating detoxification and rehabilitation center for many of those who soak up cheap wine along with the Florida sunshine.

"It's not going to be a country club," said insurance man L. Staples Pierce. "It'll be a hospital."

Pierce and other members of the Greater Miami Chamber of Commerce checked on the ship Tranquility, but Navy officials said the ship was sold for scrap to Northern Metals in Philadelphia and that a similar ship, the Sanctuary, is not up for sale. However, Navy officials said there are other hospital ships available.

Progress Club hears report

Mrs. Charles Seibert and Mrs. John Wright combined hospitalities and welcomed 19 members and one guest, Mrs. Ralph Davidson, to her home for the November Progress Club meeting. Mrs. Carl Janes, vice president, opened the meeting with the Indian version of the 23rd Psalm, as it was interpreted by Isabel Crawford.

All members answered roll call by naming a western artist, and Mrs. John Sheeley gave the book review for the evening on artist "Fredrick Remington" written by Peter Hazard.

Fredrick's boyhood revolved around horses, and his artistic inclinations began as a boy. Horses are always present in his paintings. Cowboys, Indians, Mexican ponies, and landscapes of the west played important roles in his artistic career. He was best known for horses at full gallop. His painting "A Dash for the Timbers" won him a silver medal.

Longfellow's "Hiawatha" was illustrated by Remington as was one of Teddy Roosevelt's articles, written for Harper's magazine. Several magazines contacted him to do their illustrations, among them was Harper's, Scribners and Colliers. Colliers highly criticized his work, but it didn't stop Fredrick from continuing with his own style of painting.

Mrs. Sheeley then showed slides of a museum which she and her husband visited on vacation in the west. The museum had on display some of Remington's paintings as well as a bronzed "The Bucking Broncho."

Mrs. Janes closed with the poem "Pumpkin Pie."

A dessert course was served by the hostesses during the social hour.

Rev. Puffenberger's program topic 'Proclaim Liberty'

The November meeting of the Daughters of 1812 was held in the home of Mrs. Willard Bitzer. The president, Mrs. Walter Parrett opened the meeting in ritualistic form with Mrs. Deane Powell, acting chaplain, and Mrs. Paul D. Fairley, flag chairman. Mrs. Bitzer read the State President's message.

The chief item of business was the year's contributions to the schools which the society helps support - Alice Lloyd College, Caney Creek Community Center, Bacone College for Indians, Crossnore, School of the Ozarks, and Hindman Settlement. The Daughters also contribute to the American Marine Library, the Chillicothe Veterans Hospital, and for the restoration of the Frigate Constellation.

Mrs. Powell introduced the speaker for the afternoon, the Rev. Allen Puffenberger, who chose for his subject "Proclaim Liberty - An Unfinished Task." "Proclaim liberty throughout all the land unto all the inhabitants thereof" is the motto (as everyone knows) that is inscribed on the Liberty Bell. But what does it mean to "proclaim liberty"? he asked. In the Bible from which this quotation came, it meant for the Jews a Year of Jubilee - a year in which prisoners were set free, debts were forgiven, slaves set free, and the land permitted to lie fallow and returned to the original owner, he said.

What does "proclaim liberty throughout the land and to all the inhabitants thereof really mean?"

If one goes back to the origin of the quotation, it means celebration and repentance - celebration of the goodness that is found in these United States and the achievement and advancements that have been made, but repentance, perhaps atonement, wherein all have failed, he said.

Abraham Lincoln said "that this nation under God shall have a new birth." A nation under God means a nation under God's judgment. What is God's judgment of America? Rev. Puffenberger continued. He said that all should give thanks for all the good and resolve to correct the evil that "this nation, a government of the people, by the people, for the people shall not perish from the earth."

At the close of the program, refreshments were served and all enjoyed the social hour.

Mrs. Bitzer was assisted by Mrs. Powell, Mrs. Thomas J. Hancock, and Mrs. Harold L. Slagle.

The January meeting will be in the home of Mrs. John A. Leland.

Four Legion Auxiliary members cited for 50 years of service

American Legion Auxiliary Unit 25 met at the Post home for the regular meeting. Mrs. Phillip Ford conducted the meeting in ritualistic form, and reports were presented by Mrs. Charles Williams, Mrs. Smith Mace and Mrs. Eugene Ladrach.

Mrs. Ford presented pins to Mrs. Smith Mace, Mrs. C.S. Kelley, Mrs. Maryon Mark and Mrs. Charles Howard for 50 years of continuous membership and service to the American Legion Auxiliary and Unit 25.

Mrs. William Williams and Mrs. Lawson Rhoads made the regular monthly trip to the VA Hospital, Chillicothe, and served cookies and punch to patients on Ward 26A. Cookies were provided by Mrs. Herbert Wilson, Mrs. George Rhoads, Mrs. Lawson Rhoads and Mrs. William Williams.

A donation was made to the American Legion's annual children's Christmas party which will be held on Friday, Dec. 19, at 2:30 p.m. The local unit will purchase gifts to be taken to the VA Hospital, Chillicothe. These gifts are obtained from the gift shop by the patients and used for their families. Mrs. Ray Jennings and Mrs. Williams are co-chairmen of this project.

Methodists plan Workshop

A workshop for Fayette County District Methodist officers of Methodist Women is planned at the Good Hope United Methodist Church from 2:30 to 4:30 p.m. Nov. 16, it was announced at the meeting held recently.

Mrs. Lee Reisinger conducted the meeting held at the church, and reports were heard. Members discussed the preparation of the Christmas cheer plates for shutins and Mrs. Louis Null was in charge of the closing.

Present were Mrs. Howard Barney, Mrs. Pearl Breakfield, Mrs. Bert Fenner, Mrs. Elda Fenner, Mrs. Herbert Hoppes, Mrs. L. Hoppes, Mrs. Roger Merritt, Mrs. Null, Mrs. Reisinger, Mrs. Earl Russell, Mrs. Eugene Thompson, Mrs. Orville Weidinger, Mrs. Timothy Lamb and Mrs. William Van Dyke.

Group attends 'Memorial'

A group of members from the Fayette County Barracks, No. 2291, Veterans of World War I and its Auxiliary assembled for a noon luncheon Tuesday at Anderson's Restaurant, following Armistice day ceremonies held at the courthouse World War Memorial.

Those attending were Mr. and Mrs. J. Paul Strevey, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Hays, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Wagner, Rev. and Mrs. Cloyce Copley, Mrs. Nellie Kennedy, Mrs. Lucy Sells, Mrs. Eunice Draper, Mrs. Elizabeth Smith, Mrs. Maryon Mark, Mr. R.B. Tharp, Mr. Harold Mark, Mr. Roy Purcell and Mr. Charles B. Cook.

'Ceramics' CCL topic

Mrs. J. W. Sears was hostess when she showed her display of ceramics to members of the Grades to Grads Child Conservation League Tuesday evening. Mrs. Claude Keim conducted the business meeting and announced the Christmas party for Dec. 9. Members and their husbands will meet at the Community Bowling Lanes, Xenia, for the party.

Mrs. George Smith assisted in the serving of refreshments to Mrs. Sears, Mrs. Ray Bentley, Mrs. Johnnie Bobbitt, Mrs. Dick Cline, Mrs. Earl Eltzroth, Mrs. Keim, Mrs. Delbert Marshall, Mrs. Dale Ritenour, Mrs. Charles Roush and Mrs. Robert Warnock.

Dear Abby: Afraid hubby's habits run in the family

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: The woman who is responsible for making my ex-husband a pervert now may be causing the same kind of behavior in my sons.

We were divorced after two years of counseling that didn't do a bit of good. When I was gathering my ex-husband's things to pack him up and get him out of the house, I came across evidence that he is a sadest, masochist, exhibitionist, voyeur and transvestite!

He has visitation rights to take our sons for weekends subject to my approval, and when he does, he takes them to see his mother, who has caused all of these abnormalities in her son. Now I fear that she will make perverts out of her grandsons!

Please, Abby, help me to stop all this. My psychiatrist tells me to talk to my lawyer. My lawyer tells me to talk to my psychiatrist. I am sick of talking to both these men. Everytime we talk, I get a bill.

What is your advice? At least it's free.

GOING CRAZY

DEAR GOING: My advice may be free, but I am neither a doctor nor a lawyer, and you appear to need the services of both. I advise you to listen carefully to both these professionals follow THEIR advice and get your money's worth.

DEAR ABBY: I am a 17-year-old girl who plans to pursue law as a career. I am a straight A—student, and I'm neither pretty nor popular. I am somewhat anti-social, and I'm not domestically inclined, so marriage and a family for me are out of the question.

I really don't care about having a husband and a herd of kids, and there is no way I will spend my life being a housewife. I'd crack up.

My problem is my father. Every time I discuss my future plans with him, he says I am acting like a "lesbian." I am not a lesbian, and it hurts me to hear him say it. How can I get my father to realize that I am not a lesbian just because I don't want a husband and 20 kids?

FED UP

DEAR FED UP: Unless your father is a very ignorant man, he surely realizes that every woman who rejects the role of wife and mother to pursue a career is not necessarily a lesbian.

But why make such positive statements now? It's possible for a woman to have both a career and a husband and children.

DEAR ABBY: We have been married for two years and are beginning to think about having a family. My problem is that I am not sure I would make a good parent.

I become impatient with children who throw tantrums when they don't get their own way, and I have to fight the urge to discipline them when their parents stand by and do nothing.

I know I'd be a very strict parent. Would that be good or bad for a child? You can't take a child back once it's here, so before having one I want to be sure I would make a good mother.

What do you think?

ON THE FENCE

DEAR ON: "Discipline" is a must. But a child needs love, too. If you have a lot of love to give, I'd say you have the two most important qualifications for parenthood.

Everyone has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply, write to ABBY, Box No. 69700, L.A., Calif. 90069. Enclose stamp, self-addressed envelope please.

FRIDAY, NOVEMBER 14

ARIES
(March 21 to April 20)
By-pass the irrelevant and immaterial. This is a day for making top-rank gains if you begin early and follow through, effectively capitalizing on your very fine capabilities.

TAURUS
(April 21 to May 21)
Overlook petty annoyances. As with Aries, there's too much of real importance on which to concentrate. Do not let fine opportunities or lucrative offerings pass unheeded.

GEMINI
(May 22 to June 21)
Some lack of harmony indicated. Proceed today with prudence, forethought. When considering widely divergent opinions, evaluate carefully.

CANCER
(June 22 to July 23)
Don't be thrown off guard by fancy-sounding, but possibly misleading, propositions. Study the overall picture. Where there's REAL value, however, don't hesitate.

LEO
(July 24 to Aug. 23)

Ingenuity and a fresh approach to certain situations could brighten this day considerably. Soft-pedal complaints and curb your innate aggressiveness.

VIRGO
(Aug. 24 to Sept. 23)
Be realistic now and pursue only worthwhile goals. Take temporary delays in stride. Opportunity offered through clever use of your creative ability.

LIBRA
(Sept. 24 to Oct. 23)
Some advances indicated, especially in the fields of art, designing. New suggestions may be made to you. Appraise carefully, noting all factors.

SCORPIO
(Oct. 24 to Nov. 22)
Tackle all situations without taking a dim view of problem areas. There are always solutions — many! The eager, watchful and hopeful eye sees them more quickly.

SAGITTARIUS
(Nov. 23 to Dec. 21)
Stress your innate prudence and perceptiveness. Constructive interests favored. Avoid doubts and fears. You should have a bright and happy day.

CAPRICORN
(Dec. 22 to Jan. 20)
Certain changes are in order, others are NOT. Don't go "against the grain" needlessly nor penetrate too deeply into unknown seas before you have the know-how and the facts.

AQUARIUS
(Jan. 21 to Feb. 19)
Curb an impulse to undertake enterprises you should not ordinarily consider. Stellar influences now suggest that you stick to routine, avoid chance-taking of any sort.

PISCES
(Feb. 20 to March 20)
Explore further means to solve problems that came up in the past, are still on the docket. Fulfill a cherished wish by working for it. Don't just daydream.

YOU BORN TODAY are governed by a zodiacal Sign of strength, purpose, versatility, mental and physical vitality. You like people, travel for adventure and stimulating enterprises. Using your talents to their fullest, you could succeed in almost any field by your choice but, if undeveloped and indifferent to responsibility, you could easily become a playboy or, at best, a dilettante with little accomplishment to your credit. On the higher plane, you could look forward to success in any of the following fields: science, business management, music, literature, the law or invention.

Ship loss said weird by historian

DULUTH, Minn. (AP) — A Duluth marine historian has characterized the sinking of the Edmund Fitzgerald as "a very weird accident."

"It's strange that a big, powerful ship like that went down when smaller ones didn't," said Julius F. Wolff Jr., professor of political science at the University of Minnesota-Duluth.

"This could have been another Pancake Shoals accident," he speculated.

The shoals, which are between Whitefish Point and the Canadian mainland, are only five miles from one reported location of the Fitzgerald before it was lost Monday night, Wolff said.

He added that in November 1920 the Francis Widlar struck the shoals. Another ship reported the Widlar had sunk, but when the fog cleared the next day the ship was found sitting on the shoals and the crew were all rescued.

Wolff said Tuesday he hopes a thorough search for survivors is made on the nearby Canadian coast, which he described as extremely wild and

Control board saves trees

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Historical buffs, worried that the state might permit trees to be cut down on the famous site that inspired Ohio's Great Seal, now can relax.

The state Controlling Board relented Monday and authorized the $52,500 purchase of 84.6 acres which had come under threat of the axe.

It was the second time around for the request by the Department of Natural Resources which asked that the purchase be authorized as an addition to the Great Seal State Park.

The Controlling Board said at first that the price was excessive, despite the historic value of the land which abuts the famed Mount Logan site near Chillicothe.

Owners of the land, Dale V. and Edmona M. Hartley, had said they planned to cut down all the trees to sell them for lumber. At that point several months ago, the natural resources department became concerned.

Department officials went to Ross County Common Pleas Court and obtained a temporary order prohibiting the Hartleys from selling the land until a solution could be worked out.

Subsequently, a proposed settlement called for the state to pay the couple $52,500—a figure that represented an 8 per cent increase from the actual appraised value. The Hartleys apparently thought the settlement was fair.

However, when the department came before the board last month, no member made a motion for approval.

Earlier this week, it was another story. The request was called up for a vote and approved handily, clearing the way for the land to be added to the present 1,235-acre, two-year-old state park.

Sen. Harry Meshel, D-33 Youngstown, chairman of the Senate Finance Committee and a member of the board, had an explanation as to why the issue was resolved with such dispatch.

Coming as it did after a lengthy meeting at which the agency considered several long pages of detailed spending requests, Meshel said the proposal was approved quickly "because they put it at the end of the agenda."

Richard E. Midden, deputy natural resources director, was among those relieved by the vote. "That (land) is something we cannot replace," he said.

The vote came only five days before a Nov. 15 deadline for the state to option its authority to purchase.

Dying boy given his final wish

SALINA, Kan. (AP) — Sheila Heart will never forget Nov. 1. That's the day she had to tell her 10-year-old son, Carl, he was dying.

"He didn't want to talk after I broke the news. He just turned his face to the wall," she recalls. "Pretty quick he went to his bedroom and shut the door and was crying."

It was the first time he had been told bluntly of the imminence of his death, although he knew the seriousness of his illness. Since his case was diagnosed as terminal leukemia more than a year ago at the MD Anderson Cancer Institute in Houston, Tex., Carl had been in four hospitals and visited doctors twice a week.

Four months ago, he began wrapping Christmas presents for other family members. He even asked his father how to make out a will for the toys he wanted to leave for his five brothers and sisters.

And he began to wish for a trip to Disneyland.

On Thursday his wish comes true, thanks to quick community efforts. Four of Carl's brothers and sisters and his father will fly out aboard a private jet. Carl will follow on a commercial flight, accompanied by his mother, a sister and an aunt.

Doctors had told the family it was important to make the trip soon since Carl has less than 90 days to live.

Last week Carl was hospitalized in Wichita and the possibility arose he might not see his wish come true. But new medicine was tried and it worked enough to allow him to make the trip.

Between the time Carl was hospitalized and today, donations and offers of help have accelerated. Residents of this south-central Kansas community of 38,000 contributed more than $2,000 to the Carl Heart Fund since it was established last week.

Help also included the jet aircraft to make sure Carl's family will be with him. The Salina moving and storage company is picking up the tab for the family's stay in California.

Other support included the two youngsters who went door to door in near-freezing temperatures Monday night and collected $40.

HAND QUILTED — The ladies of the Fayette County Community Action Commission's senior nutrition program have quilted this 90 by 90-inch quilt and are displaying it in one of the windows of Holt House of Furniture on W. Court Street. The beautiful quilt is also a prize winner for it took a third place ribbon at the Fayette County Fair. The women are asking a $75 donation for the quilt and the money will be placed in the senior nutrition building fund, which hopefully will one day take them from the basement of the First Presbyterian Church into their own building.

Sheriff's department receives air mask apparatus donation

Members of the Fayette County Sheriff's Department emergency unit can "breathe more freely" with a new piece of equipment, an air mask, a gift from Washington Crop Service.

The air mask provides approximately 30 minutes worth of air from a self-contained back pack weighing about 25 pounds. The apparatus, which is kept aboard the department's emergency truck, allows the wearer to breathe and work in toxic gases, fumes or dense smoke without risking lung damage.

Compressed air is delivered through a "demand" valve, which only allows air to pass when the wearer inhales, thus conserving the supply. A warning bell sounds when about 95 per cent of the air in the tank has been used.

Washington Crop Service is a distribution center for Smith-Douglass, one of the nation's leading producers and suppliers of agricultural chemicals to farmers in the eastern half of the nation.

The gift is the result of a cooperative marketing program with the Dow Chemical Co., Midland, Mich. The special program provides for donations to community service organizations by distributors of Dow's agricultural products. The awards are based on sales performance.

The equipment was presented at a special dinner held for the occasion in Bellefontaine.

Three persons fined by judge

A Fayette County man was found guilty of disorderly conduct by acting Washington C.H. Municipal Court Judge John P. Case during Wednesday's court session and fined $100 and court costs with $50 suspended providing the man, Orville E. Myers, 24, Twin Acres Motel, be on good behavior for one year. Myers was arrested and charged by city police at the Dublin Bar, Court Street, on Nov. 7.

Judge Case also heard a case involving assault plus two more involving disorderly conduct.

Grace R. Parrett, 627 Willard St., was charged with assault by Washington C.H. police on Nov. 9. The charge was on a private warrant filed by Rusty Knisley. Judge Case dismissed the case.

Dean S Byrd, 48, Bloomingburg, was found guilty of disorderly conduct by Judge Case and fined $50 and court costs. He was arrested by city police at Weegie's Town Tavern Nov. 1.

Mary Lou Byrd, 34, of 1013 John St., was fined $50 and costs by Judge Case after she was found guilty of disorderly conduct Nov. 1.

False alarm reported

For the second time in one week Washington C.H. firemen received a telephone call from an unknown woman who reported a fire on Pearl Street. Wednesday's call came at 12:44 p.m. but no fire was found.

'Moral obligation' resolution okayed by city lawmakers

By GEORGE MALEK

If one event at Wednesday night's Washington C.H. City Council meeting had to be labeled a surprise, the choice would not be difficult.

Despite a crowd which flowed into the outer offices of the City Office Building and still left several persons standing, not one person spoke when City Council chairman Ralph L. Cook made the usual call for comments from taxpayers.

The eerie silence presented a sharp contrast to recent meetings where numerous comments from the audience have often resulted in heated "debate" with and among Council members.

One point of local controversy received Council consideration, however, when the panel approved a resolution recognizing its "moral obligation" to former city manager Dan Wolford.

By a 5-2 vote, Council resolved that it was in fact obligated to compensate Wolford for unused vacation time and two weeks vacation pay.

The action cleared the air on two points which have been on the "coffeehouse circuit" for several months. First, the resolution condoned the action of Cook who authorized the payment of $1,267.80 to Wolford shortly after he left the city manager's post. Secondly, it verified publicly for the first time the widespread assumption that Wolford had been asked by City Council to tender his resignation.

Prior to the roll call on the resolution, Council member John E. Rhoads stated that he felt the authorization of a payment which had already been made was not legal. He added that regardless of that issue, in his opinion, Wolford was entitled to no severance pay because he had "resigned," and that the former city manager had actually taken the two weeks vacation for which he had been paid. Rhoads said Wolford had been in the office only one-half of each working day during his last month as city manager thereby taking two weeks vacation.

City solicitor Gary D. Smith concurred with Cook's contention that the resolution was not "authorizing" payment, but simply formalizing Council's approval of the expenditure. Smith added that the funds had been appropriated for that purpose and that Cook, as acting city manager, had been authorized to make payment.

Apparently, the action was calculated to ease criticism of Cook, who had been attacked several times for making the payment.

In addition to Rhoads, Council member Billie Wilson voted against the resolution. He stated that he did not object to the payment itself, nor to the amount of the check, but only to the manner in which the situation was handled. He stated that the matter of severance and vacation pay had been discussed before Wolford's resignation was first announced. Although he admitted that no objections were raised at that time, he said he felt the matter would be presented to Council prior to the actual payment so that objections could be aired at that time.

Rhoads had also begun to discuss some question over date on which payment was made, but the issue died quickly when the councilman said his information was based on details of the transaction provided by William F. Stoltzenburg Sr., 804 Maple St., rather than on his own investigation of the facts.

THE OPINIONS of Council members were aired on several topics during the call to Council. Councilmen Donald E. Wood and Joseph O'Brien had no comments. Council member Eddie Fisher sought a report from Ralston Smith, Fayette County Disaster Services Agency director, on progress toward a tornado warning system. Smith said a committee was meeting Monday and definitive information would be available at the next meeting of Council.

Council member Mrs. Bertha McCullough had earlier asked City Manager George H. Shapter for a report on the city's financial status which appears bleak. Shapter said he and city auditor Jack Stackhouse had been working diligently to review the financial records in depth, and would be in a position to report to Council in more detail very shortly. He noted, however, that "something has to give," because the city cannot continue its present programs with current revenues.

Wilson and Cook both commented on the same subject at the conclusion of the meeting. Both felt that the defeated levies should be re-presented to the voters at the earliest possible opportunity, and Wilson requested a special session for Council to discuss city priorities, including the sewer proposal.

Rhoads, who preceded each address to Council with "I had not intended to say anything, but..." began a terse monologue when asked if he had any comments.

He criticized Cook for having written a letter to the editor of the Record-Herald saying that this was not an appropriate forum for use by members of Council.

He stated emphatically that he had not helped circulate recall petitions and resented inferences that he had done so.

He added that some constituents feel that he is the only Council member who can represent their interests, and that he has assisted them in obtaining legal counsel to present their complaints.

He criticized Council and the former city manager for allowing city street department crews to perform work on private property which he deems illegal, and concluded with an apparent request that the Council chairman help correct the city's ills by leaving Washington C.H.

Addressing Cook, Rhoads said, "We had a great city when you came 20 years ago, and we will have a great city when you are gone."

Stan Arnold starts race for president

NEW YORK (AP) — Stanley Arnold says his recording of patriotic songs will help him become President.

Arnold, a former Cleveland who cofounded the Pick-N-Pay supermarket chain, is scheduled to announce his candidacy for the Democratic nomination here today.

He said he has produced a $10 record album of 14 patriotic songs and presidential speeches. Besides Mary Martin singing the Star Spangled Banner, he said, "I've got Franklin Roosevelt with his 'All we have to fear is fear itself.' I've got John Kennedy with his, 'Ask not what your country can do for you.' I've got Harry Truman impersonating H.V. Kalterborn announcing that Dewey had won the election. We'll pave the road to the White House with $10 bills."

Arnold said he has raised $100,000 and has over 3,000 signatures needed to get his name on the New Hampshire primary ballot.

After he left Cleveland in 1951, Arnold joined a New York advertising agency and then founded Stanley Arnold & Associates, a problem-solving agency for many large corporations.

Among his campaign platforms are the firing of Secretary of State Henry Kissinger, appointing women to the cabinet and the U.S. Supreme Court and inducing corporations to hire additional employees in exchange for tax breaks.

Arnold will be the 11th and perhaps least known Democratic candidate. But he discounts his anonymity. All other candidates are drab, he said.

"Take Sen. Jackson, for instance," Arnold explained. "He's going nowhere on the polls because he can put you to sleep with a handshake."

The Anti-Saloon League was formed at Oberlin, Ohio, in 1893.

R-H weekly carrier series

We salute

Fourteen-year-old Renita Sturgill is the Record-Herald's featured newspaper carrier this week.

The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Olen Sturgill, 707 Maple St., Renita has been a Record-Herald newspaper carrier for the past 19 months. She has a total of 19 customers on her route.

A ninth grader at Washington Senior High School, Renita's favorite subjects are general business and science. Her favorite sports are gymnastics, soccer and football and in her spare time she likes riding her 10-speed bicycle and talking to her friends.

She has purchased an eight-track tape player, clothes and gifts with money earned on her paper route. Her favorite points about being a carrier were "receiving tips if it's bad weather and nice customers." Her dislikes were "bad weather, cranky and grumpy customers and not getting my money."

"In the many years that I have taken the Record-Herald we have had quite a few carriers and I liked all of them. But I will have to say Renita Sturgill is my pick of all," said Ora Graves, 723 Sycamore St., one of the customers on Renita's route.

"Our paper girl always has a smile when she brings the paper and I hope she stays on the route," said Mrs. Ed Richardson, 501 Third St.

Ambulance kidnap eyed

CINCINNATI (AP) — Federal Bureau of Investigation offices in Cincinnati and Knoxville, Tenn., are checking the reported kidnaping of two suburban Cincinnati ambulance attendants found bound in their vehicle Tuesday on Interstate 75 south of Knoxville.

The FBI said Robert Clark, 23, of Bethel, Ohio, and Michael Doushman, 19, of Madeira, Ohio, reported they were forced at gunpoint to drive a man south after they stopped to offer help when they saw a car apparently broken down along the interstate in Cincinnati. The men told authorities the gunman tied and left them after a tire blew out on their ambulance.

The FBI said the Shoemaker Ambulance Co. never reported the men missing nor could the abandoned car be found in Cincinnati.

Arrests

SHERIFF
WEDNESDAY — David E. Stolzenburg, 31, Columbus, contempt of court.

POLICE
WEDNESDAY — Merle Sanders, 48, of 422 Lewis St., private warrant for assault.

Firemen probe grease blaze

The Washington C.H. Fire Department was summoned shortly after 11 a.m. Thursday to the Carriage Restaurant, 201 E. Court St.

Grease which had collected on a gas furnace began to smoke when the heating element was activated for the first time this season.

There was no flame, and the situation was under control when firemen arrived a few seconds after receiving the call. Smoke in the restaurant was cleared by firemen on the scene and lunches were being served before the firetruck left.

The heating unit is suspended from the ceiling near the front of the restaurant, and Mrs. Sam Roberts, owner, said cleaning of the furnace elements had been overlooked. It was not in use during the summer months. There was no damage.

4 moustached teachers sue

Four teachers filed suit against the Lynchburg-Clay Board of Education for $200,000 Wednesday claiming their contracts are being terminated because they have moustaches.

The suit was filed in U.S. District Court, Cincinnati, by Eugene K. Blough and Phil Blankenship, both of Lynchburg. John C. Jones, of Hillsboro, and James Colby King, of Wilmington.

The suit said that all four are under contract for the current school year, all four have moustaches, all four were asked to shave off their moustaches and that when they did not they were told their contracts would be terminated.

This was done, the suit said, despite the fact that "no written policy, rule or regulation of the board regarding length of hair, moustaches or beards has been published or given to any of the plaintiffs."

The suit asks $50,000 for each of the four teachers, plus orders preventing the board from terminating their contracts.

Letters from Record-Herald readers

EDITOR, RECORD-HERALD:

I would like to open this letter with the statement, I am not a member of Fayette Bible Church, nor am I a member of the John Birch Society.

Although I am not a member of Fayette Bible Church, I have attended there regularly for over two years.

For some reason some people in this community have labeled Fayette Bible Church as "The Bircher Church." I don't understand how this rumor started unless people think there are only Birch Society members who attend this church. This is not true! These people can check further and find there may be Birch Society members in other churches in the community.

"The Bircher Church" has been stated by people who have never attended this church, nor do they know what the Birch Society stands for.

According to information obtained from an encyclopedia the Birch Society is an ultraconservative organization which fights against communism in this country.

For years husbands, fathers, and sons have fought and died for this very cause. America was founded on the principals of all the freedoms we enjoy today. As an American we have the freedom to join the Birch Society the same as the Rotary Club, Lions Club, Jaycees, and etc. However, the Birch Society is not preached, taught, or talked about in any way in Fayette Bible Church.

I wish to inform people that Fayette Bible Church is simply a God fearing, Bible believing church.

Rumors are started by people who don't have facts. I don't believe a Church, or anything for that matter, should be put down or intimidated when people don't know the facts.

If standing up for God, the Bible, and the principals I believe in labels me a weirdo, then I guess I am.

Fayette Bible is a small friendly church and I personally invite everyone who wishes to attend and find out for themselves we are only taught about God and his word.

EDITOR, RECORD-HERALD:

As a concerned citizen, as a father and a minister of the gospel of Christ, I would like to voice my support of the petition having to do with Chakeres Drive-In Theatre, CCC Highway-W. I too feel that either the screen needs to be faced 90 degrees away from the road or a high fence needs to be built so that what is being shown is blocked from public viewing.

During the week of Oct. 12-19, I had occasion to drive past this theatre each evening between 9 and 9:30 p.m. For a half-mile to a mile I was confronted with total nudity of both sexes, sexual intercourse and immorality.

Firstly, as a concerned citizen, if I was to expose myself to public view and behave myself sexually in public view in the same manner as that which confronted me by this theatre, I would have been arrested and sentenced for indecent exposure.

I cannot understand why a theatre is allowed to exploit publicly for financial gain what the citizens within that society are guilty of under the law of the land.

Secondly, as a father, I am concerned about the community my children grow up in. I noticed that the theatre sign read triple-X adult movies, no one under 13 allowed. I would like to know what parents are to do who have children 13, 14, and 15 or any other age under 18 and happen to drive by on one of those nights.

Should they be required to use another road, or make their children wear blindfolds for that stretch of road, or make them be exploited to pad a theatre owner's pocket book.

I realize that those who promote immorality, prostitution, homosexuality, adultery and fornication do not have much regard or respect for the scriptures. Nevertheless, there are many, I believe, in this community who do.

I believe they have a right as American citizens to be acknowledged, respected and protected by public authorities from those who would corrupt and prostitute the innocent for a fast buck.

I believe it is time to see some action taken by both the public and the authorities in this regard.

Armco plans no expansion in Ohio

MIDDLETOWN, Ohio (AP)—Two Armco Steel Corp. officials said the firm plans no further expansion in Ohio because of high industrial taxes. Three new plants were built in Pennsylvania, Alabama and Illinois partially for this reason.

C. Wesley Rowles Jr., senior vice president of finance and Frederick Van Scoyoc, director of taxes, charged Ohio is "by far the most expensive tax-burden state" in the 48 states in which Armco has facilities. They called for a reduction in these taxes to make the state more competitive in attracting industry.

"Ohio has just about all forms of taxes—real estate, personal property, income-franchise and sales tax. Other states use these forms of taxation, but not all at the same time," said Rowles.

Van Scoyoc said that Armco, third largest steel company in terms of sales and assets, has only 30 per cent of its assets in Ohio. At the same time, 54 per cent of Armco's property tax burden is in Ohio.

He said the firm will proceed with its planned $100 million coke plant in Middletown because the commitment has already been made.

However, future expansion in Ohio will depend on whether the industrial tax situation changes, the executives said.

Tuberculosis reported

CLEVELAND (AP)—Cleveland reported 294 cases of tuberculosis in 1974 to lead Ohio cities in the incidence of the disease, the Northern Ohio Lung Association said Wednesday.

Youngstown, however, had the highest rate of tuberculosis for Ohio cities with populations between 100,000 and 250,000. For cities over 250,000, the survey says, Cincinnati had the highest incidence, followed by Akron, Columbus and Toledo.

"Tuberculosis is still a significant health problem," said Dr. Fritz Vander Kuyp, Cuyahoga County tuberculosis controller. "It seems that tuberculosis today is predominantly a disease of blacks, the poverty-stricken and the older population." He added that while blacks comprise about 20 per cent of the population in the United States, more than 50 per cent of tuberculosis occurs in blacks.

He said the disease is twice as prevalent in Cleveland for men over the age of 45 than for women of the same age.

The Northern Ohio Lung Association figures were based on a study by the U.S. Public Health Service survey. The study shows that Ohio had the lowest rate of tuberculosis cases in states with more than 10 million population. Texas has the most, trailed by New York, California and Illinois, the study says.

Employe rise by state noted

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — During the past nine months, there has been an increase of 554 employees assigned to state facilities for the mentally retarded, Dr. Timothy B. Moritz, director of the Ohio Department of Mental Health and Mental Retardation, said.

There are now fewer employees in state hospitals for the mentally ill, 8,065, than there has been since October 1965, he said.

Junior Achievement helps develop business leaders

By BRYANBUCK
Junior Achievement is an organization which helps high school students develop and practice the orderly processes of business and the economics of free enterprise.

Students participate in each "company" which is set up by the members themselves. Then they elect officers to run the company in an orderly fashion.

Stock is sold to raise the capital

New WSHS club formed

Future Business Leaders of America is a newly-formed club at Washington Senior High School. It is for students interested in pursuing careers related to business.

Members will enter contests at the local level. State and national contests will also be given consideration.

A number of money-making projects are planned to help finance trips to contest areas. Projects will include car washes and bake sales.

Contests will include competition in typing at various levels of achievement, shorthand, accounting and overall business aptitude.

Anyone who is taking or has taken any business subject is eligible to join. Advisors are Miss Carol Clements, Mrs. Doris Lutz, and Miss Susie Bailey.

needed to run each company. This stock is not legalized, thus it is non-transferable. Students in Junior Achievement must buy one share of stock in "their" company to be eligible to be involved.

After capital has been raised, the company goes into "production." Achievers buy raw materials, and assemble, or produce a marketable product.

This product is then sold to the consumer, with a reasonable profit coming back into the company. Participants receive wages and commission for what they make and sell.

The companies are operated only by high school students. Advisors are supposed to be supplied by various business and industries within the area. The advisors give suggestions and opinions on various ideas in the business portions of J.A.

This year advisors have come from Mac Tool, Inc., Armco Steel, Huntington Bank, and the Jaycees.

Junior Achievement isn't all business. It gives the members opportunities to compete for awards and scholarships. It also enables the members to meet many people, but most of all, it teaches teen-agers about the business world.

Students from WSHS and MTHS and Greenfield McClain High School participate. Any high school student who wishes, is accepted into Junior Achievement.

CONTEST WINNER — Senior Andy Merritt is congratulated by WSHS Principal Fred Jones on placing in the 1975 American History Contest. Andy is one of 170 county and statewide winners from among nearly 15,000 seniors who took the examination. He is now eligible to participate in the final competition at Ohio University in Athens on Nov. 14.

Foot-rubber given right to continue

MIDDLETOWN, Ohio (AP)— Elza Abraham has been given the legal nod to go back to doing what he likes best—rubbing peoples' feet.

The 78-year-old former postman was acquitted Tuesday of unlawfully practicing medicine without a license and immediately went back to his pastime for the last 18 years of rubbing his neighbors' tortured feet.

An investigator from the State Medical Board had testified that Abraham charged him a donation of $3 for massaging his feet.

Abraham explained that most of the money he got went to local charities.

Municipal Court Judge J.T. Lamb, in acquitting Abraham, explained that the longtime scoutmaster should ask grateful customers to make their donations directly to charity.

The trial aroused the ire of many of those who claimed Abraham's fingers had worked wonders for them. After the judge announced his decision, one woman proclaimed: "God blessed you, Elza."

William S. Kinnear, 1864-1941, born in Circleville, Ohio, was in charge of the engineers who bored the railroad tunnel under the Detroit River from Michigan to Ontario.

Deputy to help DEAF in class instruction

Fayette County Sheriff's Deputy Kenneth Hahn will be assisting Janet Duvall, president of DEAF, Inc., in conducting classes for law enforcement agencies.

The first class will be held Wednesday, Nov. 19 in the Washington C.H. Fire Department on N. Fayette Street. Participating will be officers from the Fayette County Sheriff's Department, the Washington C.H. Police Department, the Civil Air Patrol squadron, the Civil Defense unit and regular and volunteer members of the Washington C.H. Fire Department.

The Ross County Law Enforcement Society, which includes Ross, Pickaway and Fayette counties, will have classes on Nov. 24 and Dec. 1 in Chillicothe.

Miss Duvall said the classes will not be sign language, but will include basic emergency signs and will deal primarily with how to handle a deaf person effectively. The classes will deal with how to tell if a person is actually deaf, how to get a deaf person's attention without alarming him or her, why some deaf persons panic when approached by a law enforcement officer and how to effectively communicate with a deaf person through interpreters.

"Deputy Hahn has been studying sign language for only nine weeks but is one of the few people blessed with the natural ability to sign," said Miss Duvall.

Traffic Court

A Fayette county man was fined $350 and court costs, given four days in jail and a driver's license suspension period of 60 days for driving while intoxicated.

Herman F. Merritt, 58, Ohio 207, was also found guilty of failing to maintain an assured clear distance ahead by acting Washington C.H. Municipal Court Judge John P. Case during Wednesday's court session and was fined $50 and court costs on this charge. Judge Case fined the following persons for committing traffic offenses and accepted several bond forfeitures.

Fined:
Robert E. Wolfe, 22, of 322 Western Ave., $25 and costs, failing to wear corrective lenses while driving.

Robert L. Lowe, 28, Ohio 41-S, $30 and costs, driving the wrong way in a one-way alley.

Sam Riley, 68, of 1245 Rawlings St., $25 and costs, failure to obey a traffic device.

Alva P. App, 73, Laurelville, $25 and costs, speeding.

Melodrama set in Jamestown

JAMESTOWN — The drama club of Jamestown Greeneview High School will present the old-time melodrama "No Opera at the Opry House Tonight" or "Too Good to be True", on Friday and Saturday, Nov. 21 and Nov. 22, at 8 p.m. in the Central Junior High auditorium in Jamestown.

The melodrama is written with a contemporary flair, but retains all of the usual "mellodrammer" details that finds the hero victorious and the villain foiled again. The melodrama is one of the few aspects of the theatre that is truly American, and the Greeneview Players proudly present this version to help celebrate the nation's bicentennial.

The cast includes Debbie Anderson, Alan Rhoades, Mark Mash, Doug Patton, Vickie Edwards, Steve Brown, Kay Carter, Laura Knisley, Kelly Knight, Tom Anderson, Brian Young, and Vivian Myers.

Jill Massie and Todd Kepler are the musical directors for the production and will be performing many of the musical numbers that were popular in the late 1900's.

Tickets will be available at the door.

Hubcap stolen

An $18 hubcap was taken from a car belonging to Lowell Hollis, 787 McLean St., sometime Wednesday while the auto was parked in the Great Scott food store parking lot, Columbus Avenue.

Police reported the hubcap as being the standard type used on a 1972 Ford model Torino.

Homemade float entries being sought

Yule parade queen pageant set

The pageant for the selection of Little Miss Snow Princess, Miss Snow Princess and Miss Snow Queen, will be held Sunday in Fellowship Hall of the Grace United Methodist Church.

Mrs. Rick Stinson, pageant chairman, said all contestants who have returned photographs and entry blanks, plus the 24 Miss Snow Queen contestants are to be present for the judging.

According to Mrs. Stinson, Little Miss Snow Princess contestants (girls ages 5-9) should report to the church no later than 1:30 p.m. Sunday. All contestants for Miss Snow Princess (girls ages 10-13) are to be at the church at 2:45 p.m. and all Snow Queen contestants are to report at 3:30 p.m.

Winners in each category will receive portraits from McCoy Photography, savings bonds from the Huntington Bank, the Fayette County Bank and the First National Bank, gift certificates from Steen's Department Store, Soldan's women's apparel store, and Craig's Department Store, free dinners from McDonald's Restaurant, a tiara and roses.

The winners will also reign over the annual Christmas parade in Washington C.H. at 2 p.m. Sunday, Nov. 30.

Mrs. Stinson said all persons attending Sunday's pageant are asked to enter Fellowship Hall through the alley door on the east side of the church.

GROUPS or organizations wishing to enter homemade floats in the annual Christmas parade should contact Pam Landrum (335-0761) at the Washington

C.H. Area Chamber of Commerce office as soon as possible.

The newly-formed Washington C.H. Optimist Club will be directing the parade route and club members Neil Arthur and Randy Martindale are selling commercial floats.

Carr named to head Masonic lodge here

Alford M. Carr, a traffic clerk with the Armco Steel Corp. Metal Products Division plant in Washington C.H., was elected to head the Fayette Masonic Lodge as worshipful master at the annual election of officers held at the Masonic Temple on S. Main Street Wednesday night.

Carr succeeds David E. Moore, a serviceman with the Dayton Power and Light Co. office in Washington C.H. Moore, who has served in that office for the past year, was elected to serve on the board of directors for a three-year period.

Others elected to serve in the various offices with Carr were Harvey J. Heironimus, senior warden; Howard Miller, junior warden; Joseph H.

Shoemaker, treasurer; Russell Giebelhouse, secretary; John E. Lyons, senior deacon; the Rev. Wilbur Bullock, junior deacon, and Alfred M. Browne, tyler.

Carr announced that the installation of the new officers will be held at 7:30 p.m. Saturday, Nov. 22 in the Masonic Temple. Virgil E. Lowe, a past district deputy grand master of the eighth masonic district, will serve as the installing officer.

10 states top in corn

WASHINGTON (AP) — Ten states are accounting for 83 per cent, or about 4.8 billion bushels, of this year's record corn crop — estimated by the Agriculture Department this week at 5.8 billion bushels.

The biggest producer is Illinois with more than 1.2 billion bushels of corn this year, a 49 per cent increase from its 1974 harvest. Kansas is in 10th place with about 134.2 million bushels, up 2 per cent from last year.

Iowa corn production, which suffered some drought loss early this season, was put at 1.1 billion bushels, up 16 per cent from the state's 1974 harvest. Other state increases from last year included: Indiana 46 per cent; Michigan 34; Minnesota 14; Missouri 16; Nebraska 34; Ohio 22; and Wisconsin 31. Over-all, the entire U.S. corn crop is up 25 per cent from last year.

The state corn percentage increases were listed Wednesday in a weekly weather review issued by the department. It also showed that about 90 per cent of the nation's corn crop was harvested by Nov. 9, compared with 71 per cent on the same date last year.

Colonels whip Spirits

By The Associated Press

It's a bird, it's a plane ... well, actually it is a bird, Bird Averitt.

Kentucky's great shooter was flying high Wednesday night, scoring 31 points as the Colonels walloped the Spirits of St. Louis 98-81 in the American Basketball Association.

"I had a good night," Averitt said, "but I'm more glad we won the game — we have so much to prove, we're the defending champs."

Not only did Averitt contribute a season-high point total to the Colonels' victory, but Kentucky's Birdman also collected eight assists and held Spirits guard Freddie Lewis.

"I thought he did a tremendous job of applying pressure to Lewis," said Kentucky Coach Hubie Brown. "Freddie had an off-night, but I think that Bird had something to do with it."

In the other ABA games, the Utah Stars humbled the New York Nets 134-114 and the San Antonio Spurs drubbed the Virginia Squires 144-112.

Averitt and Louie Dampier sparked a Kentucky surge early in the second half, leading the Colonels to their easy victory. While the Spirits missed their first 17 shots of the second half, the two Kentucky guards picked apart the St. Louis defense as the Colonels won for the seventh time in eight games.

SCOL champion Panthers honored at grid banquet

By ED SUMMERS

The 1975 South Central Ohio League champion Miami Trace Panther football team was honored Wednesday night at the annual Football Banquet sponsored by the Miami Trace Booster Club.

A crowd of over 300 fans, parents and supporters turned out to pay tribute to the champions who finished the season with a 9-0-1 record and completely dominated the league statistics. Coach Fred Zechman told the audience, "We heard about how good one team's defense was or how good another team's offense was but when you look at the statistics no one was close to us."

Zechman also expressed his thanks to the Booster Club for the construction of the fieldhouse and for the great support given to the athletic program by the Boosters.

For the season, the Panthers amassed 3,635 total yards, over a thousand yards more than any other league team, while scoring 281 points. The offense accumulated 2,680 yards running and 955 passing. The defense allowed only 1,295 yards for the ten-game slate; 947 on the ground and 348 through the air. The only category in which the Panthers did not lead the league was in points allowed. Circleville let teams score only 57 points while the Panthers allowed 66.

The Panther coaching staff felt the undefeated season was such a team effort that they awarded the "Most Valuable Player" award to the entire varsity squad. The trophy will be displayed in the school trophy case. Other award winners were Bruce Ervin, scholastic award and top offensive back; John Schlichter, top offensive lineman; Steve Wilson, top defensive lineman; Gregg Cobb, top linebacker or defensive back; Tarkio Chester, Coaches' Award. The Coaches' Award is a special trophy that is given to a person the coaching staff feels has done outstanding work in helping with the football program. Chester is the student trainer for the Panthers.

Awards for the freshman, reserve and varsity cheerleaders were presented by Kay Black and Connie Evans, cheerleader advisors.

Freshman awards were presented to 27 members of the freshman team by coach Sonny Walters.

Small gold football trophies were awarded to all the Panther varsity players and managers by the Boosters Club. The Boosters gave special awards to 10 senior players and four senior cheerleaders. Special awards were also given to the four varsity coaches' wives.

Bob "Smokey" Wion, coach at Worthington High School, was the guest speaker for the night. Described as "a poor man's Will Rodgers", Wion brought the crowd to life with several humorous tales and anecdotes from his playing days at Rio Grande College.

Wion told the crowd he was the greatest quarterback, who ever played for Rio Grande, probably because he was the only one, explaining that the college dropped football in 1950, his second year of college, for the good of the game.

Wion, who played basketball at Dayton Roosevelt under present Miami Trace cage mentor John Woolums, warned the fans not to expect a championship team every year. "We should ask not how much the players helped football but how much football helped the players." He pointed out that a person must like himself in order to make it in life and urged each of these present to occasionally stop and take measure of themselves. "Do your best, be proud of yourself, and remember there is no such thing as an indispensable person," he said in closing.

Dan Schlichter, Booster Club president, served as master of ceremonies for the banquet.

lineman; Steve Wilson, top defensive lineman; Tarkio Chester, Coaches' Award. The award winners were all seniors and Coach Zechman praised them for the leadership they displayed throughout the season.

Financial woes plague sports

By CRAIG AMMERMAN

AP Sports Writer

The worst economic crisis to confront professional sports in recent history has caused the death of 12 teams and one league in the past month, and the bloodletting is far from finished.

Escalating salaries, labor problems, legal challenges and the threat of intervention by Congress and federal agencies have combined with the pressures of inflation to produce an atmosphere in which more teams and perhaps another league or two will cease to exist.

Major league baseball, with its big stadiums, low ticket prices and numerous games, is generally in good financial shape.

The folding of the World Football League and of the San Diego and Baltimore franchises in the American Basketball Association are part of a trend that seems certain to continue: It is the shrinking of a professional sports world that is too big, too expensive and too complex to exist on reasonable economic terms.

When the 10-team WFL ended its 18-month life in which $30 million was lost, league President Chris Hemminger said, "We will not be the last to go." He was right. The San Diego ABA team ceased operations on Tuesday, and other teams in several sports are in trouble.

The expansionism of the late 1960s, when promoters such as Gary Davidson created leagues at will, is over. The structure of most sports is in question in the courts and their future is in question at the box office.

The average salary in pro basketball is $100,000. In pro hockey, it is $70,000. The National Hockey League lost its television contract and the National Basketball Association's ratings are weak. The other leagues — the ABA and World Hockey Association — are without TV income.

In the 1974-75 season, 25 of the 28 pro basketball teams lost money. It is estimated that 15 lost in excess of $1 million. An estimated 23 of the 32 pro hockey teams lost money.

Last year, each of the 26 teams in the National Football League received a record $2.2 million in revenue from TV contracts. Yet a record eight teams lost money.

One reason is higher salaries: for example, a spokesman for the Washington Redskins said the average Redskin player made $25,000 in 1970. Now, the average is $54,000.

The NFL is not likely to go under. The same can not be said for basketball's ABA or hockey's WHA.

The WHA held a league meeting earlier this week, and one official emerged to say, "I would not be surprised if two or three teams dropped out of our league before the end of the season."

The ABA's problems may be more critical. As league officials work on printing their third different schedule in a month, as many as three of the eight remaining teams are reported in some financial trouble.

Trace sponsors

volleyball clinic

The Miami Trace varsity volleyball team is sponsoring a clinic this Saturday from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. at the high school for girls in the sixth through ninth grades.

There will be a 25 cent fee for the clinic and each girl must bring a parent permission slip. Girls planning to attend are asked to bring their own lunch.

Upland game season to open Friday

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — State Wildlife Division officials say Ohio hunters should find ample game to harvest during the upland game season for rabbit, pheasant, quail and dove which opens Friday.

But they alerted hunters that a new program of stepped-up patrols by several Natural Resources Department divisions is planned to protect the private property rights of landowners.

Dale Haney, Wildlife Division chief, said surveys conducted by rural mail carriers indicate populations of rabbit, pheasant and quail are down in some areas and up in others.

"Small game populations fluctuate because of variations in habitat conditions and inclement weather from year to year," Haney said.

Based on the surveys, Haney said the following counties should provide the best hunting for each species:

Rabbit — Pike, Muskingum, Jackson, Gallia, Athens, Lucas, Hocking, Licking, Scioto and Mahoning.
Pheasant — Mahoning, Ross,

Pickaway, Fayette, Columbiana, Madison, Erie, Fulton, Lucas and Lake.

Quail — Gallia, Pike, Washington, Clermont, Holmes, Brown, Shelby, Lawrence, Scioto and Logan.

Natural Resources Director Robert W. Teater said the program to protect private property rights was formulated in a series of conferences with C. William Swank, executive vice president of the Ohio Farm Bureau Federation.

The program will involve stepped-up ground and air patrol efforts by the 88 county game protectors and other Wildlife enforcement agents, with assistance from personnel in the divisions of Parks and Recreation, Forestry, and Watercraft.

"The great majority of hunters are responsible individuals, but there are those who unthinkingly do not respect the rights of others," Teater said.

"We are asking people to be sure to get permission before they hunt on farmland and to be aware that the law requiring landowners' permission will be strictly enforced."

Flyers top Sabres, 3-1 in NHL tilt

By The Associated Press

"Do we have a jinx over Buffalo?" pondered Philadelphia Coach Fred Shero. "I don't know but I hope so."

"I don't believe in jinxes but there must be something ..."

Shero's Flyers met the Sabres Wednesday night for the first time since the two battled it out in the finals of the National Hockey League Stanley Cup playoffs last season. Philadelphia won that time and they won this time too, posting a 3-1 victory. Buffalo has lost eight times and tied once in its last nine regular-season meetings with the Flyers.

"I know we can't always play as well as we did tonight," said Shero, "but we keep beating them."

Elsewhere in the NHL, California whipped the New York Islanders 5-1, Atlanta edged Kansas City 2-1, Chicago tied the New York Rangers 4-4 and Pittsburgh and Washington skated to a 6-6 standoff.

There was just one game played in the World Hockey Association and New England won it 4-1 over Houston.

Soap Box Derby in trouble again

AKRON, Ohio (AP) — Trustees of the All American Soap Box Derby meet today to tackle money problems that could force cancellation of the 39th running of the gravity race.

Ron Baker, general manager of the event, said the trustees will ponder what to do in the wake of Uniroyal Corp.'s decision not to help fund the race in 1976.

Prep grid semifinals slated

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — In the midst of another year of controversy, the Ohio high school football playoffs open Friday night with only one defending champion in the 12-team semifinals.

Two teams that did not reach the playoffs, Akron St. Vincent St. Mary and Bellaire, lost bids Wednesday to have the final computerized ratings refigured.

The Ohio High School Athletic Association board of control voted 6-0 to remain with the final 1975 ratings.

"There are some inequities no matter how it is approached," said Commissioner Harold Meyer after the OHSAA in an extraordinary session denied the two appeals.

St. Vincent-St. Mary assailed

Cleveland Holy Name's having two open dates and playing Cleveland University Scholl, a non-member of the OHSAA.

"I have three open dates next year," said John Cistone, the Akron school's coach. "If we don't fill them, we can pick up 162 points."

St. Vincent-St. Mary, 9-1-0, finished second in Class AA Region Five to Holy Name, 8-0-0.

Bellaire wanted to discount its victories over West Virginia rivals Wheeling, Wheeling Central and Moundsville Marshall. "They wanted to count only the points earned against Ohio schools," said Meyer.

Bellaire, 9-1-0, was second behind 9-1-0 Ironton in Class AA Region Seven.

Ironton's lone loss was to Kentucky foe Ashland.

"We're going to meet with the football coaches next month and go over everything to iron out problems for next year," said Meyer, hinting changes will be made.

Middletown Fenwick, the only school to reach the playoffs all four years, opens defense of its Class A championship Friday night against top-ranked Newark Catholic at Groveport High School.

The other Class A semifinal Friday night matches Burton Berkshire and Carey at Mansfield Senior High School.

In Class AA semifinals Friday night, Cleveland Holy Name takes on Oregon Stritch at Baldwin-Wallace College and No. 1 Cincinnati Wyoming plays

Ironton in Dayton's Welcome Stadium.

In Class AAA semifinals Saturday night, No. 2 Cincinnati Moeller battles No. 4 Findlay in Welcome Stadium and No. 1 Lakewood St. Edward tests No. 3 Newark in Akron's Rubber Bowl.

The championships all will be played next weekend in the Rubber Bowl.

Here are the pairings for the 1975 Ohio high school football playoffs:

CLASS AAA

Lakewood St. Edward, 10-0-0, vs. Newark, 10-0-0, 7:30 p.m. Saturday, Akron's Rubber Bowl.

Championship 11 a.m. Saturday, Nov. 22, Akron's Rubber Bowl.

Reds seeking pitcher

CINCINNATI (AP) — The World Champion Cincinnati Reds, who set a major league record last season for the most consecutive incomplete games by pitchers, are looking for a front-line hurler, but President Bob Howsam is reluctant to break up a winning combination.

"I've never felt anyone is untouchable," said Howsam, "but there are players on this team that somebody would have to give up a franchise to get."

Cincinnati Reds

schedule training

CINCINNATI (AP)—The World Champion Cincinnati Reds will open their 1976 baseball spring training schedule with a two-game series against the Pittsburgh Pirates, the team the Reds beat to win the National League title.

The Reds will meet the Pirates in Bradenton, Fla., on Saturday, March 13 and again the following day in Tampa, the Reds' spring training headquarters.

Pitchers and catchers report to camp Friday, Feb. 27 and hold their first workouts the next day. The rest of the squad will report on Wednesday March 3 and begin work on Thursday March 4.

"I don't expect to make many moves," Howsam added, "but we really haven't been very active. I'm not anxious to do anything at this time."

Cincinnati Manager Sparky Anderson was nicknamed "Captain Hook" following an injury to starter Don Gullett during mid-season when he used his staff in tandem going 45 games without a pitcher completing a game.

Howsam said he is hopeful that the extensive Cincinnati farm system will provide the needed starters if the Reds are unable to make a trade.

"We've got some young pitchers who will be making a strong bid for the ball club," said Howsam.

The Reds did not have a 20-game winner among their pitchers during the past season.

"I've talked to a few teams, but we really haven't been active. I'm not anxious to do anything at this time." He said he felt several younger pitchers on the present staff might develop.

A prime prospect is Tom Payne, whom Anderson feels will be a starter within a few years.

Three years ago Howsam engineered a massive trade with Houston that brought Joe Morgan, Cesar Geronimo and Jack Billingham to the Reds.

Billingham, a 19-game winner in 1973 and 1974 slipped to 15-10 this season and has been rumored to be on the trading block. Right hander Clay Kirby, who lost his spot in the regular rotation, is also the subject of trade speculation.

A year ago, Howsam was scouring the major leagues for a third baseman. He was willing to part with slugging first baseman Tony Perez. But the swap fell through and the Reds moved Pete Rose from left field to third and put George Foster in the outfield. The combination proved out when Cincinnati won a club record 108 games.

"I think I was most pleased with the way Pete Rose plugged the gap at third base, plus the way our young players like Ken Griffey and George Foster came along," said Howsam.

Johnny Bench set for surgery

CINCINNATI (AP)—Johnny Bench, catcher of baseball's World Champion Cincinnati Reds, will undergo a minor shoulder operation in Oklahoma City, Okla. Monday to correct a problem that plagued him the whole season.

"I didn't want to go to spring training as weak as I was in that arm," said Bench. I wanted to work on the Nautilus machine but I couldn't lift anything—the weights." The shoulder was getting weaker. It wasn't fair to anyone for me not to have the operation.

Bench sustained the injury in a home plate collision April 22 with San Francisco's Gary Matthews in a game at Cincinnati Riverfront Stadium.

Soreness persisted through the season, so much so that Bench began taking pain shots just prior to the National League playoffs and the World Series, which Cincinnati won.

Bench, despite the pain, managed to drive in 110 runs and hit 28 home runs with a batting average of .283 during the season. However, Bench said he was not able to perform offensively as well as he would have liked, particularly in the postseason games.

"Sure, I wanted to go up and hit the ball out of the park and drive in the winning run. You are disappointed that some things don't go as well as you'd like. But I don't care. We won. It is something to have people call you the champions of the world."

The Reds said the surgery for the All-Star catcher is not serious, especially since it does not affect his throwing arm.

Dr. Donald O'Donoghue will perform the operation. He said Bench would have no problem being ready for the start of spring training.

The operation will remove some cartilage from the joint on top of his shoulder and a small section of bone from the collar bone.

Bench said he plans to remain in Oklahoma after the operation for the Grand National Quail Shoot. He is an Oklahoma native.

Bengals face Buffalo Bills, O.J. Simpson

CINCINNATI (AP) — The Cincinnati Bengals hope they haven't forgotten how to bottle "The Juice."

That's O. J. Simpson, the Buffalo Bills rampaging running back who hopes to break his all-time National Football League rushing record of 2,003 yards this season.

"All he needs is a little crack and he's gone," says Bob Brown, the hulking 280-pound defensive tackle of the Bengals.

"We've got to keep him from busting loose," said Brown, the former All-Pro at Green Bay.

Two years ago, the Bengals were one of only two teams to hold Simpson under the 100-yard mark. He got 99 and the Bengals emerged with a 16-13 victory on a last-second field goal by Horst Muhlmann.

"There's no secret to stopping a guy like him," says Coach Paul Brown. "It still comes down to team defense."

The game gives every indication of being a wide-open, offensive affair.

"Simpson not only leads the league in rushing, but Buffalo leads the whole league in total offense," said Brown. Simpson has already surpassed the 1,000-yard mark and has collected 178 more than the entire rushing total amassed by Cincinnati.

The Bills, 5-3, have the No. 1 ground game in the American Conference and in quarterback Joe Ferguson possess the league's top passer.

No banners allowed for Howard Cosell

CINCINNATI (AP)—Cincinnati Bengals officials have ruled out making any exceptions that would permit banners to decorate Riverfront Stadium Monday night when the National Football League team hosts the Buffalo Bills in a nationally televised contest.

"It is the policy of the Bengals not to have signs and has been so since we moved into the stadium in 1970," said Bengals business manager John Murdough. "We feel the stadium looks better without them and no exceptions will be made."

The signs have become part of the color at many Monday night games broadcast by ABC-TV, with many of the signs referring to the three sportscasters Alex Karras, Frank Gifford and Howard Cosell.

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE — Here's how to work it:
A X Y D L B A A X R
is LONGFELLOW

One letter simply stands for another. In this sample A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophes, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

Speaking of Your Health...

Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

Tonsils and Mononucleosis

I teach Health Science in high school. There is always great interest in mononucleosis on the part of the students. The question came up as to the relationship between tonsils and this disease. Is there any?

Miss D.W., Mass.

Many cases of infectious mononucleosis begin with a sore throat and tender glands in the neck. Almost always the tonsils, if present, are red and angry. Consequently, it is often difficult to distinguish between an acute attack of tonsillitis and mononucleosis.

Later, other symptoms may point to "mono" and then the diagnosis is substantiated by a study of the blood. A positive "heterophil" test establishes the diagnosis.

Tonsillitis is usually caused by bacteria. Mononucleosis is caused by a virus. It is not usually considered a serious disease, and sometimes its benign character is taken too casually. This should not be done because, in some instances, severe weakness and other complications do occur.

It is certainly a "nuisance disease" because of the length of time it takes to recover one's vitality. Nevertheless, it is a disease that must be respected.

It may be of interest to you and your students to know that a group of doctors at Stanford University have come to the conclusion that people with tonsils may be more susceptible to mononucleosis than those who have undergone tonsillectomy.

They studied a rather large number of cases in college students and concluded that "prior tonsillectomy may reduce the possibility of contracting mononucleosis."

Mr. H.H.V., Minn.

Children almost always inherit the blood type of one of their parents. However, some children can inherit another blood type, one that may have been carried by a parent through the genetic background.

The major blood groups are A, AB, B and O. When both parents are group O, the children are group O and never any of the other groups.

When parents are group O and A, the children are O and A, and never B or AB.

Similar combinations, 10 in all, can produce certain blood groups and eliminate others. There are also sub-groups of blood, known as M and N. These, too, have interesting hereditary patterns. In fact, the sub-groups are sometimes used to prove or disprove paternity.

DR. LESTER COLEMAN has prepared a special booklet entitled "What to Do About Ulcers." For your copy, send 25 cents in coin and a large, self-addressed, stamped envelope to Lester L. ROSEBUD BLUE BIRDS

Members of the Rosebud Blue Birds met Tuesday in Rose Avenue School. Roll was called, the Blue Bird Wish and Pledge were repeated, dues collected and the girls made yarn dolls during the meeting.

Lisa Stallman brought treats for Kim Null, Roxie and Pam Paul, Angie Smith, Tracy Conger, Holly Kimball, Marilyn Streitenberger, Julie Lowe, Lisa Stallman, Bradley Stallman and Kevin Streval.

Also present were Mrs. Icy Streval, Mrs. Carolyn Stallman, Mrs. Betty Moore, Carrie Mongold, Mrs. Brenda Paul and Mrs. Milie Streitenberger.

Holly Kimball will bring treats to the next meeting.

BROWNIE TROOP 211

Bloomington Brownie Troop 211 met after school, when Janelle Von Barga led the troop in the Pledge of Allegiance and the Brownie Promise. Refreshments were then served by Pam Manns assisted by Amy Arnold. Pam then led the Brownie Prayer.

Topic of the business meeting was the registration of Brownie Girl Scouts. The girls were told to bring $2 to school by Friday as this would be the deadline.

The troop welcomed Tina Clemens as a new member bringing our enrollment up to 13 this year. After the business meeting, the troop danced the Hokey Pokey, Amos Moses, and Mrs. Autrey taught them several steps of the Hula. The meeting was adjourned and all sang the Smile Song.

Refreshments for next week will be served by Beth Clemens.

Mrs. Donna Autrey
Mrs. Sue Arnold, co-leaders.

Name Committee for new facility

ATHENS, Ohio (AP) — A 10-member curriculum advisory committee has been appointed for the newly created College of Osteopathic Medicine at Ohio University.

Membership is equally divided between the OU faculty and osteopathic doctors. Chairman of the committee is Dr. Ronald J. Downey, chairman of the OU Department of Zoology and Microbiology.

The committee has been asked to have its initial curriculum plan ready for review prior to Feb. 1.

Name monument superintendent

OMAHA, Neb. (AP) — The National Park Service said Alford J. Banta, supervisory park ranger at Colorado National Monument, has been named superintendent of Perry's Victory and International Peace Memorial at Put-In-Bay, Ohio.

Banta, 32, joined the National Park Service in 1968 as a ranger at Pinnacles National Monument in California. He has been in Colorado since June, 1973.

Japanese scholar visits

ATHENS, Ohio (AP) — The president of Chubu Institute of Technology in Japan, Kazuo Yamada, will visit the Ohio University campus four days next week. The two schools have had an exchange agreement since 1973.

A native of Cincinnati, Leroy S. Buffington, 1847-1931, held the 1888 patent on steel-frame buildings as led to the modern skyscraper. He was an architect in Minneapolis and showed the world such buildings were practical.

BEFORE THE BOARD OF COUNTY COMMISSIONERS OF FAYETTE COUNTY, OHIO

In the Matter of The Petition of Elisabeth B. Gray For Annexation of Territory To the City of Washington

NOTICE

Notice is hereby given that on October 20, 1975, a petition was filed with the Board of County Commissioners of Fayette County, Ohio, requesting annexation to the City of Washington of the following described territory, situated in Union Township, Fayette County, Ohio, and in Surveys No. 757 and No. 7027, and adjoining the City of Washington:

Beginning at a point in the centerline of West Elm Street and in the existing corporation line of the City of Washington, said point being S. 49 1/4 deg. W. a distance of 455.27 feet from a corner in said corporation line near the southwest corner of the Country Club Addition (Plat Book "B", page 14); thence N. 40 1/2 deg. W., passing an iron pin at 20 feet, and with the line between Elisabeth B. Gray (Deed Book 112, page 205) and Harry and Louise Townsend (Deed Book 87, page 511) a distance of 185 feet to a point, corner to Gray and Townsend and in the line of Russell S. Townsend's 1.7934-acre tract (Deed Book 92, page 244); thence with the line between Gray and Townsend S. 49 1/4 deg. W. a distance of 80 feet to a point corner to Gray, John and Patricia Lyons (Deed Book 97, page 3) and Robert and Sara Hagerty's 0.109-acre tract (Deed Book 126, page 427); thence S. 40 1/2 deg. E. with the line between Gray and Lyons, passing an iron pin at 165 feet, a distance of 185 feet to a point in the centerline of West Elm Street and in the existing corporation line; thence N. 49 1/4 deg. E. with the centerline of West Elm Street and the existing corporation line a distance of 80 feet to the place of beginning, containing 14,800 square feet, more or less.

The above described real estate is all of the real estate conveyed to Elisabeth B. Gray by deed recorded in Deed Record 112, page 205, in the Recorder's Office of said county, and a portion of West Elm Street.

An accurate plat of said territory is attached to said petition. Hearing on said petition will be had before said Board of County Commissioners at the Commissioners' Office in the County Courthouse in Washington, C.H., Ohio, at 1:30 o'clock P.M. on December 22, 1975.

Harsha supports intact road fund

BISMARCK, N.D. (AP) — U.S. Rep. William H. Harsha, R-Ohio, says the highway trust fund should be retained intact, but congressional supporters will have a tough battle in the face of pressure from urban areas.

"It will be nip and tuck," said Harsha, here to address the Highway Department's Hall of Honor dinner. "It's going to be very close."

Currently all revenue generated by the four-cent federal gasoline tax goes into the fund to support the nation's highway system.

Under a proposal by the Ford administration, Harsha said one cent would go for a trust fund to support the interstate highway system, but three cents would go into the general treasury. In addition, there is a provision that if a state levies the one-cent tax on gasoline the federal government will not collect it.

He said increased pressure from urban areas was threatening the continuation of the fund.

"You have a great bulk of people in the urban areas who are anti-highway,"

The ranking Republican on the House Committee on Public Works and Transportation, Harsha said, "For a state like North Dakota highways are the life blood of their economy."

He said if the administration proposal were approved, highway construction and maintenance would have to compete with all other areas of government spending. He said this would probably mean less money for the nation's highway system which would hurt states which depend heavily on highways for their economic health.

"In the first place education, providing adequate housing and national defense are much more popular political approaches than building highways," Harsha said.

In addition, he said there is "much pressure from urban areas which are insisting on mass transit systems."

He said the formula for distribution of the highway trust fund is based on population, area and road miles.

Local man hospitalized after motorcycle crash

A Washington C.H. man was injured in a motorcycle mishap at 4 p.m. Wednesday, Fayette County Sheriff's deputies reported.

The accident occurred when Larry R. Blue, 35, of 836 Washington Ave., finished repairing a Honda 250 and took the bike out for a test drive in the Honda Sportscenter parking lot, CCC-Highway-W, where he is employed as a mechanic. Blue lost control of the bike and upset. He was admitted to Fayette Memorial Hospital for a fractured kneecap and is reported in satisfactory condition.

Two accidents were investigated by city police Wednesday, one of which involved the citing of a Washington

C.H. man for a traffic infraction.

An accident at the intersection of East and Fayette streets at 11:35 a.m. Wednesday involved cars driven by Alice D. Teeters, 25, Leesburg, and Harry F. Townsend, 59, of 718 W. Elm St. Townsend was charged with failure to stop for a red light.

A car driven by Melissa S. Steioff, 22, of 2886 U.S. 62-SW, struck the car door of an auto belonging to Ann H. Chrisman, 42, of Leesburg, at 5:28 p.m. Wednesday when she pulled into a parking space on W. Market Street in front of the post office and the Chrisman car door was opened into her path. Police estimated damage to both autos as slight.

Grange backs local land use rules

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The National Grange Wednesday adopted a resolution opposing any legislation that would take land use decisions away from local and state governments.

A Grange spokesman said conditions vary so greatly in different parts of the country that a national land use policy couldn't be properly developed.

Jack Silvers of Master, Wash., chairman of the agriculture committee, said the Grange would support legislation limiting the Army Corps of Engineers' dredge and fill operations to navigable waters as traditionally defined by the Corps. He said current interim regulations appear to be a form of federal land use control.

Delegates voted to support legislation to reorganize the Federal Grain Inspection Service. Silvers said recent scandals involving inspectors and grain exporting firms have demonstrated weaknesses in the Grain Standards Act.

The winner of the community service contest conducted by the national Grange was the Glade Valley Grange of Walkersville, Md. Other winners were Ringoes, N. J., second; Plains, Mont., third, and Sterling, Mass., fourth.

Honorable mentions went to Indian Mound Grange, Palm Bay, Fla.; Riverside Grange, Buffalo Gap, S. D.; Fredonia Grange, Marshall, Mich.; Two Rivers Grange, Fairbanks, Alaska; and East Barnard Grange, East Barnard, Va.

Incoming traffic this past week has been K-D Tool's twin Aerostar, several helicopters, a Piper Navajo, a Seneca, G.C. Murphy's company plane and several smaller aircraft.

This has been great flying weather and local pilots taking advantage of it have been Wally Coster, Mike Prickett, Bob Lundquist, Tex Guerra, Don Simonton, Ron Combs, Mike Putnam, Ron Walker, Bob Wilson, Ron Doucette, Mark Pitstick, Mark Merritt, Don Munzer, Millard French, Jason Rummer, Bob Meenach and Jeanette Young. How about some of you gals giving Jeanette some company - come on out and take an introductory ride.

Veterans, did you know you can use the G.I. bill to obtain flight training? And Ohio vets can use their bonus toward receiving their private pilot's license - call the airport to see if you qualify under this program. We have been remiss in not saying a thank you to the American Legion Post 25 who donated the new flag we now have flying out here - we do appreciate this.

I'll be placing an order soon for more Fayette County jackets, so if you would like one, please let me know.
